

CITY WILL SELL AT HOME

The $15,000 Street Improvement Bonds Placed in Charge of Committee—Will Handle and Sell Same.

The council met in regular monthly meeting, last evening, all members being present except Ald. Abb. Before roll call Mayor Walters introduced S. A. Cook, of Neenah, Republican candidate for U. S. senator, who spoke for about ten minutes on the subject of good roads. He said that as long as a body of men does business for the city the same as they would for themselves, they will win out for the people. He commended the council on its action in issuing bonds for street improvements. When bonds are issued and payments are strung out for a long time, at the lowest rate of interest, the taxpayer feels no extra burden, and the coming generation assists in paying for the good work. Stevens Point, Mr. Cook said, is undergoing so many changes for the good that he hardly knows the city. He then concluded his remarks with a story and invited Chief Hafsos to accompany him and get a box of cigars for the council, which the members later enjoyed.

A petition to have a 4 inch surface sewer laid on Fourth avenue from Union to Prentice street, was referred to the committee on fire department. The members of the board of education, Father Ehr and the officers of St. Joseph's church, petitioned the council to lay a sanitary sewer on Jefferson street, connecting at Division street, to the 5th ward public school and St. Joseph's parochial school, a distance of two blocks. Ald. Redfield and Cook spoke in favor of granting the petition, the latter saying that this would satisfy a great many taxpayers, and by all means we should try and accommodate the parochial as well as the public schools. Comptroller Cunneen said the sewer could be laid for about 55 or 60 cents per foot, or a total of about $300. A motion to refer the matter to the board of public works with power to act, was unanimously adopted.

Residents on Main street, between Reserve street and Michigan avenue, asked to have a sewer laid between the points mentioned. Ald. Redfield wanted the petition laid on the table, and his motion to that effect was lost by all voting no except Redfield and Sparks. Ald. Schenk's motion to refer it to the board of public works to report at the next meeting was carried.

Agnes Martin, through her attorneys, Sickelsteel & Pfiffner, presented a claim in the sum of $750 for injuries alleged to have been received on a defective walk on McCulloch street, west of East avenue, May 26, 1910. A communication accompanying the claim stated that the mayor had been served with a notice of the claim soon after the accident. The matter was referred to the city attorney.

C. U. and J. P. Malick, A. M. Nelson and other freeholders of the city and town of Linwood petitioned to have a road, extending west about three-quarters of a mile, near the Malick farm, opened up. Ald. McDonald stated that the town of Linwood is ready to do its part, and all that is now necessary is to get permission from the council. This was also referred to the city attorney.

The report of the comptroller showed that $157 had been paid for pauper aid during the past month, and Ald. Redfield thought that paupers who are supported here at county expense, or the expense of some other county, should be sent back to where they came from. Two are now being cared for here in this manner. The amount of $52.20 was paid for expense of the recent Decoration day observance, and it was ordered that the balance left over, $20.80, be turned back to the general fund.

At this time Mayor Walters was called away and President Schenk was called to the chair, presiding during the balance of the session.

City Atty. Owen presented a written report on the claim of Outagamie county for the support of Merton E. Elkey and family, former residents here, amounting to a total of $603.35, part of which he thought was valid, and recommended that someone be appointed to check up the bills, covering a period of two or three years. The report was accepted, and the comptroller was authorized to follow the recommendation of the attorney and if necessary visit Seymour, the present home of the Elkey family, and make an investigation.

Judge Murat presented his quarterly report, together with a check for $135, received from fines. The fire and police commission asked that bath tubs be placed in both engine houses, and the petition was laid on the table.

A retail liquor license was granted to Jos. V. Boyer for a saloon at 308 Main street, but the application of Clemens Pietrowski was not acted upon, as the official notice has not been published a sufficient length of time.

Several bids for the purchase of the $15,000 in street improvement bonds, recently offered for sale, were presented and referred to the committee on finance, who recommended that all be rejected, which motion was carried. Both local national banks were among the bidders, that of the First National offering a premium of $101.75, and set forth that the city could receive the money as fast as it needed it, $5,000 this season and the balance later on when called for.

Upon motion of Ald. Heffron the chair was authorized to appoint a committee to have charge of the matter and sell the bonds as needed. Pres. Schenk appointed City Atty. Owen, Mayor Walters, Deputy Clerk Finch, Comptroller Cunneen and Ald. McDonald as such committee.

Ald. McDonald reported that the city is greatly in need of 1,000 feet of fire hose, and the comptroller and fire committee were authorized to advertise for bids for the same, and report at the next meeting.

The contract for the telephone fire alarm system was presented but Clerk Finch had refused to sign the same owing to a misunderstanding about the outside boxes, and a motion that the contract be accepted when the company conforms to the agreement made by the local manager, was carried.

Ald. Cook and Urowski asked that the board of public works fill the street in front of St. Peter's church, when the Second street macadam work now in progress reaches that point, and also at the side of the Lasecki store, which will be done. The council adjourned.

They Defeat Nelsonville.

The Plover Paper Co. base ball team, which seems to be able to defeat most anything in sight, added another score to its collection, Sunday afternoon, when Nelsonville went down, 8 to 1. The game was played at Nelsonville, and although the village boys put up a good game, they were entirely outclassed by the Plover company team, which was composed of Duncan Fishleigh, Ted Menzel, John Moran, Percy Fishleigh, Jos. Mosey, Will Menzel, Mike Marx, Herman Menzel and Claude Hussin.

He is Getting Old.

The many of us who so well and favorably know and remember C. D. Morgan, who for several years, some years ago, was a Stevens Pointer, will (in a measure) look with suspicion on that sentence in the following letter, received a few days ago, in which he says he is getting old. It was dated at his home, Santa Cruz, Cal., July 21st: "Crops of all kinds are good in California this year, and consequently there are thousands of summer visitors in Santa Cruz just now. Among them I frequently meet John Carey, Stevens Point's former premier tailor, who is here for the season. He is nicely established in the tailoring business in Watsonville, and has been there for several years. Old age is beginning to tell on me, and my little daughter has been very ill. She is now convalescing and I hope she will be able to attend Notre Dame Academy this fall. Kindest regards to all."

THE WEST SIDE DRIVES

The Macadamizing of Central Avenue is Starter For Better Things All Can Enjoy in Near Future.

Perhaps some of you have not been over on the West Side since Central avenue was paved from the Wisconsin river bridge to the Soo crossing, but all who have had occasion to drive over the improved thoroughfare are delighted, especially if they were accustomed to traverse that street before the macadam was laid. The work throughout, which was done under the direction of T. E. Cauley, is first class in all respects, making Central avenue one of the best streets in the city. Now when the work is extended north on Superior and south on St. Louis avenues, which cannot be reached before another season, Stevens Point can boast of one of the finest drives, either by auto or carriage, in the state.

The road beyond the city limits, and some distance this side, has always been in very good condition. Stretching down along the Wisconsin river bank almost to Meenah, the natural scenery during the summer season is most picturesque and delightful, and the drive gives one a much better view of the paper mills, water power, etc., than can be obtained on the east side of the river, while nature's beauty spots for camping, outing and picnic parties are numerous.

Superior avenue north to the city limits is in a very deplorable condition, on account of the sandy condition of the soil, and the few attempts that have been made toward improvement in the past, have all disappeared far below the surface. From the city limits to the boom house the road is good and could be made better by rolling down the small loose stone after a rain. The town of Carson has promised to fix up the highway from the Soo crossing at Webster east as far as necessary, and have the rock on hand to do the work. As soon as the harvest rush is over, Chairman Siegert will no doubt get busy, and when his improvement is finished the entire community, whether they travel over the same on business or pleasure, will have occasion to bless his work. Martin's Island, Maple Beach, Webster and other places up the river are occupied with many camps and cottages this season, and while most of the campers reach their destination from the city by boat, others travel by auto or team, and all of the latter are thorough advocates of good roads. The beautiful up-river camping spots were never as popular as this year, the dry season being a barrier to mosquitoes.

Lease the Columbia House.

Frank H. and Chas. E. Parker have moved their families here from Pittsville and expect to become permanent residents of Stevens Point. The first named gentleman has rented the house at 410 Park street and his brother is located in the Columbia House, just north of the Soo passenger depot, which property Parker Bros. have leased from W. F. Berndt, Sr., for a term of years. It is an ideal location for hotel purposes and will be put in first class condition. The several rooms are now being repaired and re-decorated by C. W. Richmond, lincolnton will cover the office floor and practically all the sleeping rooms will be fitted out with new furniture. Both of the new proprietors impress one as being go-ahead, progressive men and a full measure of success is wished them.

COMRADES MEET AGAIN

Members of the 18th Wis. Infantry and 12th Battery Gather in Annual Reunion.

Fifty or more survivors of the 18th Wis. Infantry and the 12th Wis. Battery are meeting in annual reunion in this city, with headquarters at Rothman's Hall. All seem to be pleased with their reception thus far, express themselves in the kindest terms about Stevens Point, and some who had not been here before in a number of years, are surprised at the progress that has been made. This forenoon there was a business session of the association, at which time a resolution was adopted requesting the 14th regiment and the 6th and 12th batteries to meet with the 18th regiment at their next annual reunion, to be held at Fond du Lac next June. A resolution of sympathy for Comrade Jas. A. Bremmer, of this city, who is still confined to a hospital at Fond du Lac, on account of injuries received by falling or being thrown from a train a couple of weeks ago, and hoping for his speedy recovery, was also introduced and unanimously adopted.

Officers for the ensuing year were re-elected as follows:

President—J. W. Waldo, Chilton. Sec. and Treas.—E. G. Hart, Chilton. Capt. O. W. Wallis, of Chicago, and E. B. Fish, of Clinton, Iowa, but formerly of Racine, where he was engaged in the manufacture of the celebrated Fish Bros. wagon, were taken into custody at an alleged early hour last evening, escorted to Hotel Sellers and given one of the best rooms in the house. Mr. Wallis, who is a manufacturing jeweler, says they were treated like princes, rather than prisoners of war, and after breakfast this morning were given a verbal leave of absence until dinner time. Both gentlemen have been most intimate friends since 1855, and Mr. Fish first visited Stevens Point as a traveling salesman in 1868, when almost the entire business district of the town was west of the public square. His last trip to this city was about 25 years ago.

Among the visitors are a few ladies, including Mrs. Emma Henry, of Oshkosh, "The Daughter of the Battery," which title she was given when a baby of two years.

Those who had registered up to noon today are the following, but others are expected on the afternoon trains, including Col. J. A. Watrous, of Milwaukee, who is on the program for an address this evening:

EIGHTEENTH INFANTRY.

Peter Tension, Kilbourn; Schuyler Whitaker, Buena Vista; Hubbard Moss and Norman Danforth, Plover; L. E. Buck, city; J. W. Baldock and E. G. Hart, Chilton; W. H. Edminster, Almond; Ben Addelman, Casanova; F. Beadle, Grand Rapids; P. J. Johnson and Henry Irish, Plainfield; P. A. Hart, Nelsonville; J. Abbs, Fond du Lac; M. H. Cunningham, Richland Center; H. L. Johnson, Stevens Point; John A. Sterling, Abbot; J. K. Taylor, Kilbourn; Truman Rice, Stevens Point; Walter Whitaker, Stevens Point; J. H. Smith, Waupaca; I. A. Baker, Stevens Point; E. H. McDougal, Dallas, Oregon; E. Mahoney, Grand Rapids; W. A. Buckman, Portage; John Fallon, Rockford, Illinois.

TWELFTH BATTERY.

E. B. Fish, Clinton, Iowa; A. Pierer and wife, Beloit; E. G. Harlow, Janesville; John Greenwald and wife, Menasha; O. W. Wallis, Chicago.

This afternoon the veterans and ladies were given an auto ride about the city and to suburban points of interest, and between 7 and 8 o'clock there will be a program of martial music. At 8 o'clock there will be a campfire at the hall, with the following program:

Prayer.....Rev. John Fish, Pestigo Song.....Male Quartet Address.....Mayor Walters Recitation.....W. L. Cooling, Oshkosh Recitation.....Mrs. F. M. Playman Song.....Miss Knickerbocker, Marshfield Address.....Col. J. A. Watrous Recitation.....Mrs. Grace West Song.....W. L. Cooling Song.....Male Quartet Address.....Rev. John Fish Song.....Miss Knickerbocker Address.....B. B. Park Recitation.....Mrs. Stemen

Will Receive Full Penalty.

The mayor wishes us to say that he is getting heart-sick of having to listen to the pitiful tales of wives and mothers about the brutality of husbands and fathers who come home intoxicated, and in some instances do not seem to need to be very much under the "influence" to wreak vengeance on those they should protect. That from this on Judge Murat will impose the full penalty and the offenders will be compelled to work on the streets, and unruly ones will get the "ball and chain" and be given a "sun-bath." The same punishment is also going to be meted out to a number of young would-be toughs that seem to feel they must run amuck about every so often. He also wishes The Gazette to state that there is an unusual amount of complaint regarding speeding motorists and that any of the latter caught exceeding the limit will get the "limit."

People living on the outskirts are entitled to protection from dust raised by an auto going at a rapid rate of speed, and it does seem as though the owners of autos would give this due consideration and take a few more minutes to get to their destination, meantime lessening the danger to themselves. But at any rate they must use more caution or there will be "plain clothes" men placed on guard.

FRED COPPS HAS FIRE LOSS

His Home at 708 Clark Street is Badly Damaged Last Evening—Wearing Apparel Destroyed.

The residence of Alfred M. Copps—the late Dr. John Phillips' homestead at 708 Clark street—was badly damaged by fire and water shortly before 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Probably the greatest loss will be from the burning of clothing, practically all of Mrs. Copps' wearing apparel being destroyed and many of the children's clothes were burned or damaged by water.

The fire started in a wardrobe or closet on the second floor of the upright or west side of the house. Just how it originated is not known, but it is possible that one of the little children was playing with matches. The blaze had got a good start when the mother's attention was called to it, so that it was impossible to save little or anything in the room. The fire department turned out in its usual quick time and soon had several lines of hose in action, quenching the blaze in a few moments but not before the walls and ceiling were badly scorched.

Much of the furniture was gotten out without material damage. Miss Agnes Rait occupies the east wing as living rooms and her furniture was also carried to the lawn.

Mr. Copps' loss will amount to several hundred dollars, fully covered by insurance in the Finch and Buckingham agencies. Mr. Finch carries a policy on contents and the Buckingham Co. on the building.

To Have Firstclass Equipment.

The Chicago and Wisconsin Valley railroad, the proposed interurban line between Janesville and Merrill, with Stevens Point on the route, has entered into a contract which provides for the following equipment:

Five electric locomotives, each equipped with 4-90 h. p. motors; 10 interurban cars, each equipped with 4-75 h. p. motors; 8 standard interurban trailers; 4 combination baggage, express and mail trailers; 4 standard passenger coaches (same as used by steam roads) 1st class; 4 standard smoking cars, trailers, 2d class; 4 package freight cars, equipped with 4-75 h. p. motors; 8 standard summer trailers; 2 gasoline motor passenger cars; 4 gasoline motor inspection cars; 40 gondola cars; 40 flat cars; 40 box cars; 4 cabooses; 1 wrecking crane car, electric equipped; 1 work or construction car, 4-75 h. p. motor; 1 repair car, 2-25 h. p. motor; 2 sweepers; 2 snowplows.

The gasoline motors provided for will be used during construction and before the road is electrified. It is the design to begin operation for business upon each section just as soon as the roadbed is in shape to operate over. This service will probably be given with gasoline motors and before the electric plants can be installed.

NO SHOW IN THE EVENING

Buffalo Bill Will Make Only One Appearance in Stevens Point—Eliminate Street Parade.

Only one performance, that beginning at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, Aug. 11th, is the announcement made for the Buffalo Bill and Fawcett Bill aggregation which shows at the fair grounds on the above date. Major John M. Burke, a special representative and for many years a "pal" of Buffalo Bill's, was in town the first two days of the week, and among other information he imparted was that there would be no street parade. While this will be a disappointment to the small boy and girl and some of the grownups, few if any regrets will be expressed by farmers and others living at a distance, as it enables them to leave home at a seasonable hour, attend the afternoon performance and return early enough to care for their various duties.

Maj. Burke wishes to emphasize the fact that this positively is Buffalo Bill's last appearance before the public, and also that the entertainment to be given here is identical with that given in New York and other large cities.

The reader will please bear in mind: There will be no street parade and the one and only performance here begins at 2 o'clock p. m.

Will Teach in Western Normal.

Miss Josephine Fitzgerald, former supervisor of practice teachers at the Stevens Point Normal, has been appointed assistant supervisor of the seventh and eighth grades in the state Normal school at Cheney, Wash., and will take charge when the fall term opens. Cheney is located sixteen miles southwest of Spokane. Miss Fitzgerald is a teacher of wide experience, having been employed in the Normal schools at Oshkosh, River Falls and this city, and also taught for several years in graded schools.

We Will Miss Them.

The Normal summer school closed last Friday forenoon, and most of the students left at once for their respective homes, as did also those of the faculty who came from outside, including Prof. W. H. Luehr, superintendent of the Manitowish schools, who made many new friends and more firmly cemented the old ones during his stay of six weeks in Stevens Point. Several years ago Prof. Luehr was superintendent of schools at Grand Rapids, and also had a little experience as a newspaper publisher there, but concluded to go back to his first love. Stevens Pointers will miss the bright faces of the many young schoolma'ams and masters who were here this season.

The Weekly Band Concert.

A program of unusual merit has been prepared for the Union band concert to be given at court house park Thursday evening of this week. The several numbers appear below:

March—"The Ford".....Zickel Overture—"Remick No. 5".....Remick Duet, cornet and trombone—"Devotion".....Brooks H. L. Bannister and L. A. Collar Paraphrase—"The Palms".....Faure March—"Ture Blue".....Kenneth Star Spangled Banner

FALSE RUMOR SET AFLOAT

Stevens Point Ready to Welcome Former and New Residents, Who Will Find We Are Not Exorbitant.

You've heard that song which contains a stanza, "Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown, what will you do when the rent comes round?" Well this is not what seems to bother certain persons at present, but how much more will be asked for rent in the future than in the past? Among the permanent residents of Stevens Point there are very few renters, 90 per cent. of our residents owning their own homes, and those who live in rented houses pay less than the same class of dwellings can be secured for in most any city of this size in the state, all things being equal. In fact it is an admitted truth that the average renter does not receive to exceed 3 per cent. on his investment, after taxes, insurance and the cost of repairs have been paid, and it is known that in the past more than one owner of a South Side and East Side dwelling, who live elsewhere, has turned his property over to a reliable tenant with the understanding that the latter keeps the same in as good repair as when he moved in, the same to be rent free.

It has not always been thus, and we believe there is now no disposition on the part of any owner who has property either for sale or rent to ask more than a reasonable price, notwithstanding the wild, imprudent rumors that seem to have been set afloat by those not too friendly, and which have reached the ears of some of the good people who we want to welcome with open arms "when the divisions come back," which will be in the near future. They will find that the old town is a good town, one of the best ever put on the map to stay; that in no town, like this town, most everybody is not a grafter, trying to "make hay."

Remembered the Fire Boys.

In recognition of services rendered at the recent fire in his lumber yard, when the fire department did such excellent work in saving property and stopping a conflagration, E. J. Pfiffner sent a check to Chief Chas. H. Packard for $32, last Saturday, accompanied by the suggestion that the chief retain $5 and give $3 each to the nine firemen. The wish of Mr. Pfiffner was immediately carried out, and for which the fire boys feel grateful to that gentleman.

Be Loyal to Home Dealers.

A stranger was about the city a few days ago selling dress goods from house to house. The prices ranged from $4 to $6 per pattern, and as an extra inducement to buy he would take orders giving a dozen towels, which he claimed were worth 25 cents each, all for $1.00. Of course the towels were to be delivered later, but they will never come. The dress patterns were delivered at once. As soon as the authorities learned what was going on, Mayor Walters and Chief Hafsos rounded up the fellow, demanded a license fee or the fellow's hasty departure from the city. He flew, claiming the license was too high. It is a shame for any citizen to patronize a traveling faker of this kind, or in fact anyone who competes with our local merchants, those who pay the tax. Be loyal and politely ask them to move on.

11 YEAR OLD BOY KILLED

Ben. Danielski Falls Off Wagon and Skull is Crushed by Horses—Accident Last Evening.

Bennie Danielski, who was 11 years of age the 20th of last month, and next to the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Danielski, 620 Prairie street, was almost instantly killed last evening. The father owns a farm in the town of Hull, a few miles northeast of this city, as does also another of Prairie street, Mr. Tryba. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Danielski brought in a load of oats for his neighbor, four tiers of sacks being placed on the wagon. Ben drove the team and his father sat at the rear end of the wagon box.

As the rig was going over the Soo crossing at Church street the bag upon which the boy was sitting was shaken off, throwing the lad between the horses. It is presumed that one of the animals kicked him, as there are bruises on the side of his head and the skull was undoubtedly fractured at its base.

The accident happened so quickly that the father hardly realized what was taking place, but as soon as possible the boy was picked up and carried to Henry Sylvester's house just across from the passenger depot. Dr. E. H. Rogers arrived in a few moments, having been summoned by telephone, but the little fellow was already beyond earthly help. The body was later taken to the family home on Prairie street.

Funeral services will be held at St. Peter's church next Friday morning, with interment in the parish cemetery. Ben is survived by his parents, four brothers and two sisters. One brother and a married sister live at Wausau, the others being residents of this city.

THE LAKES AND RIVERS

Some of the Stevens Pointers Who Have Been or Are Enjoying Camping Life or a Brief Outing.

One of the campers at Webster has a family of fourteen for dinner last Thursday and another had sixteen.

There are several other camping parties near Webster, Chas. A. Lane and family having secured quarters on Monday.

P. J. Jacobs and children are camping at Martin's Island, having secured the Mrs. E. H. Rogers cottage for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Warner and M. C. Skinner and family were among the Ploverites who enjoyed cottage life at the Echo Dells resort for a week or two.

Misses Anna Virum, Claudina Halverson and Mary Hanson and Kenneth Halverson have pitched a large tent for an outing near Webster.

The W. L. Bronson quarters are known as Camp Rollout, those of J. M. Ash as Camp Isabelle, and the Glennor quarters as Camp Glendale.

Mrs. L. P. Moen and daughters, Misses Elida and Ada, were guests of Mrs. G. E. Clark, down on the east banks of the Wisconsin, Tuesday.

Miss Marie Cauley has been a guest at Camp Glendale, near Webster, for the past few days, and Miss Frances von Neupert was at the same place a part of last week.

Maple Beach, for the first time in some years, is being well occupied with campers this season, a large party spending Sunday afternoon there and enjoyed a carnival in the evening.

W. B. Coddington and family of Plover, who had been camping at Echo Dells for several weeks, have returned home.

Among the more recent additions to the army of campers at Martin's Island, since our last report, are Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kitowski, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Strong, Joseph Kryger, Chas. E. Bert and family, and Chas. Raymond, wife and daughters. Mrs. Chas. Cartmish and daughters, Misses Ethel and Merle, of this city, and Miss Hazel Martin, of Madison, occupied the Martin-O'Keefe cottage last week.

While on the way to Martin's Island, Saturday evening, the H. J. Finch launch struck a "dead head," which was dashed against the stern, tearing a hole through the bottom. The boat and occupants, Mr. Finch, C. A. Schenk, Mrs. R. B. Johnson and Miss Etta Bloye, got to shore in good time, but of course the ladies had previously indicated a disposition to become a little anxious to reach terra firma.

Mrs. F. H. Hughes and two children are spending a few days at Echo Dells, occupying a cottage owned by the lady's father, A. M. Nelson.

Misses Leila Nelson, Elsie Behrendt, Helen Swan, Evelyn Glennon, Margaret Clark and May Hartle, the latter of Amherst, have joined the campers at Martin's Island.

Body Not Identified.

The stranger who had one of his legs taken off by a train on the Soo, between Custer and Amherst Junction, on Tuesday night of last week, died at Mercy Hospital, in this city, soon after The Gazette went to press Wednesday afternoon. The man never gained consciousness after he was picked up by the train crew, and there was nothing on his person to disclose his identity. To some men with whom he worked for a day near Amherst, he said his name was John Wick or Week, and that he was coming here to visit his mother. Coroner Boston has made every possible effort to find someone who can identify the man, but all to no purpose, and has kept the remains in Forest cemetery vault with the hope that relatives may yet be found. The stranger is between 55 and 60 years of age, and apparently a laborer. Years ago Julius Wick resided in this city, later moving to Milwaukee. He is a brother of Mrs. Aug. Glocksine, 1120 Church street. She also had another brother whom she has not seen in a number of years. Mrs. Glocksine viewed the remains and says that the dead man is not a relative.

WANT A NEW HOSPITAL

President Von Neupert Appoints a New Board of Directors and Calls Meeting to Elect New Officers.

Now that the main division of the Soo railway will soon be established in Stevens Point, a movement is on foot to locate a commodious and fully equipped hospital here, an institution a need for which has long been agitated. With this end in view, Dr. von Neupert, Sr., president of the incorporated Charity Hospital Association, has selected the following ladies and gentlemen to act as a board of directors: D. E. Frost, B. B. Park, H. J. Finch, Geo. B. Nelson, Dr. M. C. Rodd, Dr. von Neupert, Sr., Mrs. C. C. Conlisk, Mrs. T. H. Hanna, Mrs. E. D. Glennon, Mrs. N. A. Week, Mrs. J. W. Chifford and Mrs. C. R. Baker. The members of this board have been notified to meet at his office, in the Citizens National bank block, on Thursday evening of this week, at 8 o'clock, for the election of officers and the transaction of any other business that may come before the meeting, including the matter of a new hospital.

Will Attend Fraternal Congress.

John W. Brown, state commander of the Macabees, will spend most of next week in Detroit attending the National Fraternal Congress, whose annual convention will be held there.

Treasurer of Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Road Company Talks Encouraging of Project.

The Portage Democrat, of which J. E. Jones, treasurer of the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Railroad company, is editor, devoted a couple of columns in his paper the other day telling what he knows about the future of that much-desired addition to the future welfare and prosperity of the entire valley, from which a few extracts are taken:

The treasurer of the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Railroad company has in his possession a contract whereby $3,250,000 in cash is available to build Section B of the Chicago & Wisconsin Valley Railroad, which section is from Madison to Stevens Point. This assures the construction of the road beyond question.

The contract provides that said Section B shall not cost to exceed $3,387,600, and that the road shall be completed and operation not later than July 30, 1912. Because $3,250,000 is provided for it is not necessary that the full amount shall be issued, for the contract further provides "that whatever portion of these bonds is not used shall be cancelled."

This large investment of eastern capitalists in this big enterprise which means so much to Portage and central Wisconsin, was brought about through Mr. Allen T. Russell, president of the Western Indiana Construction company, the company which has full control of the entire proposition. Mr. Russell went east with the report of the proposition upon which he has spent six months of untiring effort and a goodly sum of money and succeeded in interesting eastern capital. Said capitalists sent an expert and experienced engineer, Mr. Geo. T. Wiswell, to Wisconsin and after nearly a month's investigation and examination, he made an exhaustive report and upon that report contracts were signed, sealed and delivered and Mr. Wiswell was sent west, representing the companies who have underwritten the bonds, and he will remain and act in conjunction with the officers of the Western Indiana Construction company until the road is built and equipped from Madison to Stevens Point.

The actual work of construction will be delayed until every preliminary and detail preparatory to the somewhat changed conditions are arranged for. All franchises and rights of way must be secured, contracts entered into and all legal provisions complied with, all of which takes time and work. When these matters are completed, actual systematic and effective work will be ordered and this section of the country will know two pretty busy years.

It was the original intention of the promoters of this new railroad to construct it almost wholly by the sale of stock, but the people along the line were either too skeptical or too timid to make extensive investments. Western money men seem to prefer to send their money east and permit the eastern capitalists to send it back west for investment and thereby the eastern fellows make the big profits. This being the case Mr. Russell was forced to go east for the bulk of the money necessary to build the road.

The company, however, will issue $1,000,000 in stock, which stock will own and control the road. This stock will be sold at par, $100 per share, and according to Mr. Wiswell's report will at the end of the first year earn $43. It will be the aim of the company during the next three months to place this stock among the people along the line of the road. For two reasons every stockholder will be interested in assisting to make business for the road, and the control of the road after it is built will be in the hands of the people whom it serves. With the amount of money already provided for back of the road and with the undoubted assurance of an increased income each year to the road and with the laws of Wisconsin to protect the investor no investment can be made that is safer or which will yield better returns than an investment in the stock of this new railroad at par. If the stock is not taken in the west or along the line it will, like the bonds of the road, be grabbed up at the first presentation to eastern capitalists.

An allotment of stock will in the near future be placed for sale in each community along the line and a limited time be given to subscribe for the same.

By W. H. Fuller

The lesson for this week is Matthew 19:1, 2, 13-26. The first verse records the departure of Jesus from Galilee, where, as we said a few weeks ago, the Master spent most of his time and wrought most of his mighty works. Whether or not he had told the people that he would not visit their province again, great crowds of them followed Jesus as he started southward toward Jerusalem as if to witness some last miracle of the Great Teacher. Many of them indeed, were in need of his continued ministry, and in response to their need it is said, in verse 2, that "he healed them there."

Now the rest of Matthew 1 has to do with incidents and teachings which belong to the very close of this last journey to Jerusalem. Between his departure from Galilee and his arrival in the holy city, Jesus was occupied with a ministry for a record of which we are indebted almost entirely to the gospel of Luke, (see chapters 8 to 18.)

Verses 3 to 12 are omitted from these studies, doubtless because they deal with a subject which it would not be wise to discuss in the intermediate and junior classes of the Sunday school, viz: divorce.

The first section of our text, verses 13-15, bring before us one of the most beautiful scenes in the life of Jesus. "Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should lay his hands on them, and pray." We are left to suppose what was doubtless true, that these little folks were brought to Jesus by their mothers. "And the disciples rebuked them." Like many other grownups before and since, these men regarded children as beneath their notice. They, and their Master, were too busy with the great affairs of the Kingdom to pay any attention to boys and girls. So they seemed to mind. But Jesus was of a far different mind, and the conduct of his disciples in trying to turn the mothers away from him, roused his anger (see Mark 10:14). And it was just at this point and while in an indignant mood that the Master gave utterance to those words which are among the most oft-quoted of the Bible: "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Jesus never forgot his own childhood, as so many men and women seem to do, and so he never despised the childhood of others. If there is anything that ought to stir a Christian community to righteous wrath it is the mistreatment or neglect of children. Sometimes the very ones who are responsible for the coming into the world of a boy or girl, have no welcome for the child, and become guilty of sins worse than murder in their treatment of their own offspring. The child has a right to be welcomed, and to receive the most thoughtful and loving attention at the hands of all who have to do with him. In the present day agitation against child labor, and the movement to establish special courts for youthful offenders with judges possessed of the spirit of Judge Lindsey, we observe signs of a more Christ-like regard for boys and girls than they have heretofore received. The greatest national resource we have is our children. Their care and conservation ought to receive more attention than the saving of our forests, mines, or water power. In the second portion of the lesson, verses 16-22, our thought is turned toward a rich young man who asked Jesus what good thing he should do to have eternal life. His inquiry was evidently prompted by a serious motive. While conscious of having lived a life which outwardly was above reproach, he still felt dissatisfied. When Jesus called his attention to the Ten Commandments, the young man said, and apparently without any proud boasting: "All these things have I observed;" and then added: "What lack I yet?"

For he knew that he did lack something. The Savior applied a test which brought to light the difficulty in the young man's life. When he was asked to sell his possessions, devote the proceeds to charity, and then take his place with the followers of Jesus, he could not meet the requirement. Whether or not Jesus would have exacted such a complete renunciation if the man had shown himself willing to comply, we cannot be certain. All that Jesus wanted to do, and what he did most effectually, was to lead the young ruler to a discovery of himself. While he had lived what might be called a moral life, he was wedded to his wealth. Under such conditions his reverent regard for the Law could not secure for him eternal life. Eternal life is the gift of God through Jesus Christ, and becomes the possession of such as love God with all their hearts. When money, pleasure, position, power, or any other thing takes the place of God in one's life, the life of God is shut out from that soul.

The lesson closes with the Savior's warning against the danger of riches. The difficulty with which a rich man can enter the kingdom of heaven is pointed out. Wealth makes possible so much of ease and luxury and pleasure, that its possessor is tempted by their allurements. The interests of the Kingdom are apt to receive last instead of first consideration. Pride, selfishness, and a false sense of superiority are apt to mark the person who has great wealth. Not of necessity, but that is the tendency and Jesus only warns against the tendency. Wealth is good in itself, and to the man whose heart is humble and who seeks first the kingdom of God, furnishes splendid opportunities for service in the extension of that Kingdom.

WRONG ATTITUDE ON CURE

Dangerous Misconception Concerning Ease of Recovery Has Arisen Out of the Crusade.

A dangerous misconception that tuberculosis is easy to cure, which is likely to be responsible for the death of thousands who might otherwise be saved if proper methods were used under proper conditions, has arisen out of the crusade against tuberculosis, and the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association is making a determined effort to remove this wrong attitude among the people of this state.

"Some have the idea that by merely sleeping out doors, eating a great many eggs and drinking huge quantities of milk, a cure is assured. One would not think of throwing bricks, mortar and other building material in a heap and expect an edifice to grow out of it; still this is a similar situation," says a bulletin issued by the society.

"Combined with rest and applied with comprehensive understanding, these are the agencies which make for an almost certain cure of an early or incipient case of consumption. The physician, the dispensary and the sanatorium are the only agencies to apply them properly. That consumptives do get well in spite of almost every violation of sense and reason should not be taken as a guide, except as to how much more can be expected when the effort is properly directed."

The misconception is an inevitable result of the anti-tuberculosis crusade, the bulletin adds. When the crusade was started several years ago, most people and even physicians considered consumption incurable. In order to penetrate the wall of pessimism and inculcate the hopeful message brought by the great crusade, the early crusaders were perhaps more optimistic and enthusiastic in their claims on the curability of the disease, than was justified. It may have been that the advocates of the new philosophy exaggerated a trifle to strike a balance and make an impression on pessimism, or perhaps the people went further than was expected in their reaction. The association prefers to dampen the general enthusiasm, if it be necessary to letting these too optimistic patients die because of unwarranted self confidence.

The Wild West and Far East Will Include Among Its Features a Scene Depicting the Old Wagon Train.

Among the typical western scenes which will be shown with Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East will be the wagon train settlers' camp and Indian attack, in which the pleasures and amusements of the plainsmen and early settlers of the middle west will be correctly illustrated. Cowboys will disport themselves on horseback, doing the various "stunts" which their equestrian expertness has made them famous for; roping horses, picking up objects from the ground while their bronchos are at full gallop, and performing numerous other tricks known and accomplished by the cowboys of the prairies. In the same scene will be introduced troupes of trained bronchos and mustangs. Ray Thompson has achieved the feat of educating the western horse, training him to perform the various "high school" tricks of the thoroughbred circus horse and accomplishing feats which it has never been presumed these lineal descendants of the wild horse were capable of being instructed in. As a culminating feature of their performance one of the horses jumps over a camp table at which is seated a party of diners. While these scenes of revelry are being enacted, Indians are noticed to be stealthily approaching and soon they make a murderous attack upon the pleasure party and the scene of revelry is quickly changed to one of relentless combat. By this method are illustrated the dangers and perils which beset the pioneer in his mission of redeeming the prairies to the uses of civilization. Other scenes typical of early days in the west will form a part of the Wild West and Far East. The roughriding contingent will show thrilling feats of equestrianism, and will illustrate the riding methods of the world's equestrian nations. In contrast with these western scenes will be shown an Oriental spectacle, which will illustrate the costumes, customs and people of the Orient, bringing the sands of Sahara into comparison with the rolling prairies of our western wilds.

Horsemen Galore.

Horsemen from all nations have been assembled in the Congress of Rough Riders which will appear with Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East when it visits this city. Indians, cowboys and Wild West girls will represent the native type of riders and their style will be in marked contrast with the reckless Cossacks from Russia, Bedouin Arabs, Mexican Vaqueros and South American Guachos. In the military manoeuvres distinct types will be provided by German Cuirassiers, Irish Lancers, English Dragoons and United States Cavalry and Infantry. Horsemen will play an important part in The Battle of Summit Springs and an attack on an emigrant train, which will be prominent features of the exhibition. And at each performance Col. Wm. F. Cody, the original and only Buffalo Bill, will be in the saddle directing affairs and appearing in the various scenes, and make his final bow to his patrons, as it will be his positively last appearance here.

[By GLEN V. KRAUS, MARSHFIELD]

Mr. Bass reposed quietly in his favorite hole in the stream underneath the overhanging bank. Although apparently at ease and contented, his temper was sorely ruffled. In a fit of absent-mindedness he had inadvertently seized a dazzling fly that had suddenly dropped upon the placid surface of the pool, and as a result of his foolishness, his mouth now smarted with a deep gash, received from the hook. Ever since his early youth he had shunned such flies, knowing full well that they concealed a cruel hook, from which, once on, no fish could free himself without a torn jaw. Mr. Bass had learned much from an experience not greatly different from the one that had just befallen him. Had the man at the other end of the "fly" been more skilled in the art of "casting," in all probability, Professor Bass, the veteran instructor of a large school of young bass, would have been ignominiously, and not half so comfortably, reposing within a wicker basket hung to the side of a fisherman; this predicament alone would have been a disgrace and unbearable to his Majesty.

So Mr. Bass lay in his cove and watched the flies as they dropped upon the water. They would drop almost directly across from him, near the other bank, and luringly glide across the stream toward him. Several times he saw, with sullen hatred toward the man, young bass, members of his own private family, suddenly jerked from the water, to be seen no more. He then realized that his teachings were of little or no avail.

Finally the gaudily decorated hooks ceased to disturb the water, and Mr. Bass' anger had diminished. Just as he was about to swim from his hole to obtain a real meal, a worm, an ideal, fat earth-worm slowly descending thru the clear water and stopped within two inches of his nose. Many times before, in playful moods, Mr. Bass had amused himself by cleverly biting worms of the same species from small boy's hooks. Once or twice he had been caught in the tough skin of his mouth, but had always escaped. Now he was hungry, that was certain. The worm in front of him would hardly appease his hunger; yet he decided to take it and make the boy re-bait his hook.

After much deliberation he slowly and cautiously advanced to bite. He carefully took hold of that part of the worm that dangled from the hook, and successfully obtained that delicious morsel. Hastily bolting it, he took hold of another part and was about to bite it off when the hook suddenly jerked upward and Mr. Bass was firmly hooked completely through the upper jaw. Again his temper rose; again his anger appeared, and he dashed off for about six feet with the hook in his mouth. Get beyond that six feet he could not. This way and that he plunged, dived and rushed, but the line tested 20 pounds dead weight and the hook almost equaled the size of one required for a "muskie." He struggled for half an hour before he began to realize that his strength was leaving him. This very realization nerved Professor Bass to make another struggle, which lasted but five minutes, before he was slowly but steadily drawn in. He was drawn up directly in front of his old hole, which he realized would soon be occupied by his rival whom he had defeated in battle a short time ago.

The small boy (for such he proved to be) was astonished beyond measure and never ceased to tell of the bass he caught that "fit" like a whale.

Thus it was that Professor Bass, learned instructor in the art of shunning fishermen's hooks, fell a victim to the subject of his teachings and demonstrated once more the old maxim: It isn't the pole that catches the fish; it's the man behind the pole.

NO MORE striking contrast abounds in an exhibition of widely differing features than is to be found in the exhibition given by Itay Thompson's Trained Western Range Horses with Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Great Far East. In the same arena with the wild bucking horses of the plains, Mr. Thompson presents his troupe of skillfully trained equines, foaled in the same atmosphere as the broncho and reared amid the same surroundings.

This season Rhoda Royal's troupe of twenty high-school prize-winning thoroughbreds—universally crowned favorites—have been added. This combines every link from the primitive and practical to the artistic development of the educated equine. These two intelligent studs have never before been seen in one arena—both recognized as top-notchers of the excelsior class. Another interesting equine novelty is Football on Horse-back, played between Indians and cowboys mounted on the rugged little cayuse and the belligerent broncho. Brought over from England this new style of athletics is an absolute novelty, grotesquely presented and full of real comedy. Essentially a "horse show" in the broadest acceptance of the term, the Wild West and Great Far East exhibition is in no wise limited to equine features, for there are military displays, cavalry charges and gorgeous pageants. The splendors of the Orient are here reflected, early American history is brought to mind in stirring conflicts and replicas of barbaric Indian warfare. And the feature of features is the appearance at every performance, rain or shine, of Col. Wm. F. Cody, the only and original "Buffalo Bill," who gives his personal attention to every detail of the exhibition.

STOPPED THE DUEL.

But Not Until Maynard Was Nearly Dead From Terror.

Regnier, the French satirist of the reign of Louis XIII., forced a quarrel upon the poet Maynard, who was almost Quakerish in his love of peace. Maynard could not well avoid the appearance of taking up the quarrel, but immediately after the preliminaries sought out his patron, Comte de Clermont-Lodève, and begged him to "surprise" the party at the dueling ground and break up the affair. The count promised, and Maynard went away with a lighter heart. But his patron, wanting some amusement, hastened to the field and concealed himself in the shrubbery before the party arrived. Maynard went through the first stages of preparation very well, but grew more and more nervous as time passed and the count did not appear. Then he began to play for delay. First he was sure that his sword was shorter than his adversary's, necessitating a slow and technical measurement. Next his boots hurt him, and he had a long, hard struggle to get them off his feet. At last, after the cold perspiration had begun to drip from his brow and he was more dead than alive, his protector emerged suddenly from the bushes and interfered. A peace was soon patched up, Maynard declaring that if he had said anything disagreeable about Regnier he had not intended to do so and Regnier accepting this as token for his wounded feelings. As Maynard threw down his sword at the close of the parley and reached for his hat he was heard to murmur, "Another time I shall trust to my own wits to pull me out of a scrape, for if I had depended on the count I might have been made into mince-meat a half hour ago!"—New York Post.

Saved by His Wit.

Lord Justice Fitzgibbon, at the time when he was one of the justices of appeals in Ireland, was holding assizes in Tipperary county when a man was brought before him on indictment for murder. The case was proved that the victim came to his death by being hit with a stick in the hands of the defendant, but the doctor testified that he had what they called in medical parlance a "paper skull."

The case looked dark for the prisoner, however, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. As the man was brought before the court for sentence it was noticed that his lordship had his black cap in his hand.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon you?" demanded Lord Fitzgibbon.

The man looked for a moment and then said, "No, your lordship, I have nothing to say, but I should like to ask one question."

"What is that, my man?" said Fitzgibbon.

"I should like to know what a man with a head like that was doing in Tipperary?"

The black cap was put away and a prison sentence imposed.

Mixing Religions.

The bright six-year-old daughter of an upper west side physician happened into his reception room the other day, and a waiting woman patient engaged her in conversation.

"I suppose you go to church and Sunday school?" she asked.

"Oh, yes, ma'am," she replied.

"And what denomination do your parents belong to?"

"Why," said the little one, "mamma's a Presbyterian and papa's a brain specialist."—New York Globe.

Candidates for Office

For State Senator.

To the Electors of the Twenty-first Senatorial District: I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of Senator of this district. I am a resident of Stevens Point, where I am engaged in the practice of law. I am forty-two years of age, and have been an attorney at law for over twenty years and I feel that my experience gained in my profession fully qualifies me to represent this district. If I am honored with the nomination at the coming primary election, and elected, I shall give to the duties of the office my best attention and my time will be at the disposal of the entire district.

Stevens Point, Wis., June 30, 1900.
Yours very truly, D. L. Sicklesteel.

DON C. HALL

Candidate for the Republican nomination at the 1910 September Primaries for the office of State Senator from the Twenty-first district.

"A BUSINESS MAN for a BUSINESS MAN'S CONSIDERATION."

Member of Assembly.

To the voters of Portage County:—I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination for member of assembly on the republican ticket, at the primary election to be held in September. In the matter of the coming election of United States senator, I shall, if nominated and elected, support the republican candidate receiving the largest vote throughout the state of Wisconsin. Soliciting this endorsement and expression of continued confidence by the people of Portage county. I am, Respectfully yours, O. A. Crowell.
Almond, June 21, 1900

For County Treasurer.

To the Voters of Portage County:—The undersigned respectfully announces his candidacy for the office of county treasurer, subject to the will of the voters at the Republican primaries in September, and if nominated and elected will give the office my continued personal attention and carefully guard every interest of the tax payers of the county. Having resided in the town of Stockton all my life, I feel that I should be known to most of the voters in the county, and shall appreciate your support at the polls on Thursday, Sep. 6th, 1900.
Respectfully, Jas. B. Dawley.

For Treasurer.

To the voters of Portage County:—I desire to announce that I will be a candidate at the primaries for election as the Republican nominee for the office of treasurer for Portage county. In view of my past services for the people of the county any word of introduction seems unnecessary, but I do wish to state that if elected to the office I will devote my entire time to the duties thereof and will put forth my utmost effort to give the people a safe, efficient and conscientious administration of its important affairs. Any assistance from my friends in furthering my interests in this regard would certainly be most sincerely appreciated. Yours very respectfully, George F. Hubbard
Stevens Point, Wis., June 15, 1900

For Sheriff.

To the Voters of Portage County:—I respectfully announce that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff in the Democratic primaries, to be held on Thursday, Sept. 6th. Being well known in all parts of the county, I believe it is safe to say that I can stand on my personal record as a citizen, as well as the official record made by me while holding the same office for two years prior to January 1900. No duty was too severe or arduous to be shirked or neglected, and if again nominated and elected the same efforts will be made during the next two years. Thanking the voters of Portage county for their generous support in the past, and hoping for their good will in the future. I am Respectfully, Frank Guyant.

Register of Deeds.

To the voters of Portage county:—I wish to announce that at the primary election next fall I shall be a candidate on the Republican ticket for nomination to the office of register of deeds, subject to the will of the voters of Portage county. Feeling grateful for the good will manifested, and the generous support accorded me in the past, and soliciting the support of the people of this county, I am, yours respectfully,
C. M. Chapman.

For County Treasurer.

To the voters of Portage County:—Having served the people of this county as their treasurer for four years previous to about four years ago, and feeling that they were satisfied with my administration, always having endeavored to serve all alike and leave a clean record, I again respectfully solicit your support at the primary on Sept. 6th, being a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Treasurer.
Respectfully, Ben Halverson.

Candidate for Sheriff.

To the Voters of Portage County:—I wish to respectfully announce my candidacy for the office of Sheriff on the Republican ticket, subject to the will of the voters at the Sept. 6th primary election. Having spent my entire life in this county, I feel that I am known to a majority of the voters at least, and my present experience as undersheriff, which office I have held since Jan. 1900, and have always aimed to discharge its duties faithfully and impartially, will be of great benefit should the voters honor me with the nomination and election. Trusting that you will remember me at the Republican primaries I remain respectfully,
George A. Sutherland.

WISCONSIN VOTERS

Wisconsin workingmen will never favor County Option. They do not want a law that proposes to regulate only one class.

COUNTY OPTION MEANS COUNTY PROHIBITION—AND EXPERIENCE PROVES THAT THE RICH MAN'S CLUB AND THE RICH MAN'S HOME ARE NEVER MOLESTED BY PROHIBITIVE LAWS.

This is un-American, and is neither fair nor just—it is the rankest kind of class legislation.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO ENFORCE A LAW THAT IS INTENDED TO MAKE ONE CLASS OF CITIZENS ADJUST THEIR LIVES THE WAY ANOTHER CLASS THINKS WOULD BE BEST FOR THEM.

HANNA FOR SENATOR.

Thos. H. Hanna, of this city, has decided to become the Democratic candidate for State Senator in this district, consisting of the counties of Portage and Waupaca, and will have no party opposition in the primaries. Other Democrats in the district had been asked to make the run, but declined, and after much urging on the part of his friends, Mr. Hanna finally yielded and his nomination papers will be filed with the secretary of state before next Saturday.

While the district is strongly Republican, yet it may not be impossible to elect a Democrat this fall. It has been done in the past, at a time when the Bennett law issue swept the state. In the present campaign there is an issue that may have a like effect on a majority of our liberty-loving voters and Mr. Hanna sent to Madison to represent the people of the 21st senatorial district. He is well known in both counties, born and reared over among the pine stumps near Manawa, Waupaca county, and for over ten years has been engaged in the practice of law in Stevens Point, serving as mayor for four years. After the September primaries there will be something doing. You will then hear from Tom Hanna.

COMPLICATED PRIMARY BALLOTS.

The candidates who will make runs at the primaries in September who have been congratulating themselves at their names begin with a letter which will, according to their ideas, place their names at the head of the list of the names of candidates, have an awful jolt coming. County Clerk Bourn has discovered that a recent enactment of the legislature has changed the old rule of things and incidentally gives him a large amount of additional work to do in preparing the various ballots for the elections.

The law provides that the names of the various candidates for offices shall be rotated throughout the county for the primaries, and it goes into effect this year. It requires the county clerk to arrange in numerical and alphabetical order each of the voting precincts in the county, and then take the names of all candidates for each office and arrange them in alphabetical order. In printing the ballots the names of the candidates will be set forth in alphabetical order in the first precinct, which in this county will be the town of Alban, but in each succeeding precinct the county clerk must arrange to have the name which appeared first on the list in the first precinct printed last, leaving the name of the man who was in second place at the top of the list in the second precinct. Thus if there are four candidates for an office in every fourth precinct each man will have his name first on the list. The enforcement of the law will make a lot of extra work for the county clerk, he being required to make out twenty-six different ballots, one for each precinct. Heretofore one form of ballot did for all, but under the new law each precinct will require a different one. Great care will also have to be exercised to see that no mistakes are made in making the proper arrangements of the names in the various precincts. Considerable additional expense in the line of printing bills will result from the numerous changes in form that are required by the new law.

Will Locate at Oshkosh.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Greenhagen and the latter's mother, Mrs. Hamilton, who have been visiting at Oshkosh, return to the city on Tuesday, and expect to leave about the middle of the month to take up their residence there. The fact that Mr. Greenhagen had resigned as instructor in manual training in our high school was mentioned last week, and his many friends will be pleased to know that he has secured a more lucrative one, that of assistant teacher in manual training in the Oshkosh Normal, a position in which he does not fail to give satisfaction. The vacancy here will be filled at the next meeting of the board, who has a number of applications for the position.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Articles and Items of News that Appeared in the Columns of The Gazette, Quarter of a Century Ago Today.

City Treasurer Stenger spent the day in Green Bay.

Last Thursday was the warmest day experienced in these parts for many years. The thermometer indicated 100 in the shade.

E. A. Sherman and wife recently became the happy parents of a little girl, the first one in the family.

A little girl was born at the residence of Mal. Collins on Saturday, Aug. 1. This is the eleventh addition to that family.

The last word of Gen. Grant was "water." A short time before he remarked: "I hope nobody will be distressed on my account."

Portage has a population of 5,501, about 1,000 less than Stevens Point. In 1880 that city had about two hundred less population than this city.

There has not been a prisoner in our county jail for the past five or six weeks, with the exception of a couple from other counties, kept here over night for safe keeping.

After an illness of ten weeks, the last five of which he was confined to his bed, Christian Dauber died at his home on Prairie street, South Side, on Friday evening, July 31. The cause of death was ulcer of the stomach.

H. O. Halverson returned to Bristol, D. T., Monday morning last, where he is engaged in business. He is of the firm of Halverson & Hestis, dealers in lumber, shingles, lath, sash, doors and building paper, who are doing well.

John V. Bakens and Miss Alfaretta Redfield were married at the home of the bride's parents, on the South Side, by Rev. R. W. Bosworth, Thursday morning last. Fred Zimmer acted as groomsmen and Mattie Day as bridesmaid.

The population of Portage county in 1880 was 17,731, and it is now 23,247, an increase of 5,516 in five years. In the city there are 113 soldiers and sailors of the late war, making a total of 482 in the county. Of those subject to military service there are 1,416 in the city, making 3,958 in the county.

The Board of Education met as per call, on Thursday afternoon last. A building committee consisting of E. R. Herben, E. M. Copps and D. J. Ellenwood was appointed. A committee consisting of E. M. Copps and E. D. Glennon were selected to look after a site for the new 4th ward school building.

Jas. Corrigan and Miss Maggie Dineen, a young couple of Stockton, were married at St. Stephen's church by Rev. A. J. Abb, on Thursday. Geo. Corrigan, a brother of the groom, and Miss Annie McCarthy were the groomsmen and bridesmaid. After the marriage ceremony was performed the parties drove to the home of the groom's parents, where a reception was held.

THEY WANT SQUARE DEAL

Wisconsin Hunters and Fishers Preparing to Organize an Association—Interesting Facts for Sportsmen.

Hunters and fishers in Wisconsin are uniting to organize the Wisconsin Hunters' and Fishers' Association.

This organization, which will be state wide in scope, will stand for a revision of the present game and fish laws. The revision will be made with a view to giving the actual hunters and fishers of the state a voice in framing the laws governing the shooting of game and the catching of fish.

"A square deal for square hunters and fishers" will be the slogan. No measure will be advocated that will endanger the game and fish supply of the state, but such revision will be asked as will give Wisconsin hunters and fishers the same advantages as are held by those in neighboring states and at the same time protect game and game fish.

It is felt that with united front and an organization perfected the hunters and fishers of the state can secure such revision as is both eminently fair and for the best interests of all concerned. With that object in view, the first steps have been taken toward forming the state organization.

This will be done through organizing county associations first and later uniting them into a state body. Winnebago, Dane, Dodge, Milwaukee, Waushara and other counties have already started in on the work of organizing, with Winnebago, according to latest reports to Secretary E. B. Rebholz, leading in point of membership.

Due to the state organization will be but 25 cents per member. County dues may be placed at such figure as local conditions warrant. Milwaukee county places dues at 50 cents per year and then voted to turn the entire amount into the state association.

It is planned to call a state meeting, with delegates present from every Wisconsin county organization, for a date not later than August 29. This means prompt work in every county that wishes to be represented. Any additional information, together with details of what is desired, can be secured by inquiry to Secretary E. B. Rebholz, 49 5477 Jefferson street, Milwaukee, Wis.

The sole object is to give the rank and file of the hunters and fishers of the state a voice in framing the game and fish laws. It is felt that general approval will be met with in every county, and state organization quickly perfected.

PROF. SECHRIST GOING

Popular Instructor at the Stevens Point Normal Accepts a Position in Rhode Island State College.

Frank K. Sechrist, teacher of literature and rhetoric in the Stevens Point Normal during the past ten years, will leave in a few days for the east, having accepted the position of professor of English in the Rhode Island State College at Kingston, Washington county, at a material advance in salary over that which he is receiving here, with a written guarantee of a still further advance next year. This school is the main educational institution of the state, and has a faculty of twenty-three.

President Howard Edwards, the head of the institution, visited Stevens Point the first of last week, when he had a personal interview with Prof. Sechrist. At that time the matter of salary, the only barrier in the way, was discussed, and this could not be determined until Mr. Edwards returned east. On Monday Mr. Sechrist received a telegram advising him of his engagement, and he is now packing his household furniture preparatory to its shipment. Mrs. Sechrist and children are at present visiting near Gettysburg, Penn., and will not return here.

Before coming to Stevens Point in the fall of 1900, Mr. Sechrist taught for 7 years at Lockhaven, Penn., has native state. Among teachers, pupils and citizens generally he is recognized as a leader in educational circles, a gentleman of broad mind and thorough research, with a desire to ever expand and secure and disseminate the best in his chosen calling. During the decade that Prof. and Mrs. Sechrist have resided in Stevens Point they have formed many friends who keenly regret their permanent departure, and wish for them all that may be desired. The Rhode Island College is certainly fortunate in securing Mr. Sechrist as a member of its faculty.

MANY HORSES COMING

Fourteen Fast Ones Already at the Fair Grounds Preparing for the Coming Trials of Speed.

There will be no lack of trotters, pacers and runners to compete for the purses that have been hung up by the Stevens Point Fair management, fourteen now being on the grounds to go in the races, this being the first meet in the circuit. Eleven of these horses arrived this week, while three others came previously, and all have records that their owners are not ashamed of. Then the list of free attractions for the coming fair are of the best, including Ramza and Arno, European eccentrics, George and Georgie, the komical, kapering klowns, and Reuben and Samanthry, right from the farm.

Everybody should push for the fair. There is no good reason to suppose that it will not be better than ever this year, and if our farmers are a little short in certain lines of vegetation, all should do the best they can to assist in making the fair a success. The entire county is interested in this fair. The grounds were purchased by the county, and the country people should feel that this is their fair just as much as though they lived in town. Only three weeks more in which to get ready. In the meantime, boost for the fair.

Marriage Licenses.

Frank Yakizeh, Linwood, to Susie Solke, Stockton. Frank Neuman, Junction City, to Martha Kniech, Eau Claire. Peter Zikevski, Stevens Point, to Hannah Stencik, Hull. Theo. Demka to Anna Tadewaita, both of Eau Claire.

ARE YOU A SAVER?

Do you lay aside a certain amount weekly, for the rainy days that are sure to come? Or do you spend all, and trust that you will be able to take your place and earn your salary every week? Suppose you were to be idle for a time, would you be prepared to meet the expense or would each day find you slipping farther into debt?

There is no one to answer these questions for you. Each man must decide for himself. The progress that each one makes must be by his own individual effort. Suppose you do start to save now. Select a bank that is safe, one that has an interest in you and your account. One that you can depend upon at all times, and one that helps you make saving easy. This is what we do.

You can start a savings account here with one dollar or more. We pay three per cent. on savings. You intend to save—start NOW. All business confidential.

The Best Hour of Life

Is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had; I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful cold and cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is." For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that. It's the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, hemorrhages, lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, throat and lung trouble, etc. and St. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by H. D. McCulloch Co.

An aeroplane-motorcycle-auto race is a novelty today, but what would it have been ten or fifteen years ago?

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

With $30,000,000 worth of irrigation bonds on hand there should be no lack of moisture for the crops of the west and northwest.

Struck A Rich Mine.

S. W. Bends of Coal City, Ala., says he struck a perfect mine of health in Dr. King's New Life Pills for they cured him of liver and kidney trouble after 12 years of suffering. They are the best pills on earth for constipation, malaria, headache, dyspepsia, debility, etc. at H. D. McCulloch Co.

By general consent Professor Wood, who declares that skunks are good to eat, will be allowed to have the entire supply for his own use.

If your liver is sluggish and out of tone, and you feel dull, bilious, constipated, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets tonight before retiring and you will feel all right in the morning. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

The small-boy fatality is likely to be on the increase, now that the aviation-experiment craze has seized upon the fancy of adventurous youth.

In buying a cough medicine, don't be afraid to get Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it, and relief is sure to follow. Especially recommended for coughs, colds and whooping cough. Sold by H. D. McCulloch Co.

Needs, Not Words

Stevens Point People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit. The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills. For Stevens Point sufferers, it has made their lives reputation. Proof lies in the testimony of Stevens Point people who have been cured to stay cured.

Emil G. Betlach, 312 E. 1st street, Stevens Point, Wis., says: "I can add to the public statement I gave several years ago in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have never had any recurrence of kidney trouble."

The endorsement to which Mr. Betlach refers was given on March 25, 1905 and was substantially as follows: "My back was very lame and kept me in misery night and day. In the morning I was tired and could not stoop without having sharp twinges across my back. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills spoken of so highly, I went to Taylor Bros. drug store and procured a box. In a few days after using them, my trouble began to disappear and it was not long before I was cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Made by Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agent for the U. S.

POINTERS ON DRAFT HORSES

An expert authority on breeding horses gives the following information on the draft horse, an animal that plays an important part in farm work at this season of the year. He says: I will undertake to give you a few simple rules to go by in the selection of horse breeding stock. In all my experience of the last thirty years I have acquired a good many rules. I have found from my experience and observation that if you will observe a few simple rules you will not be misled very much in your selection.

You must keep in mind what he is for. He is not to be cut up into steaks and roasts, like the steer. He is an animal of strength. In other words, he is a steam engine on a small scale. His duty is to draw a load and pull heavy weights. And as long as that is true you can see the importance of size. Here size alone helps to move the load.

A horse that weighs a ton moves a load easier than the 1,800 pound horse. Being in the nature of a machine, to do the best work he must be properly proportioned; he must be balanced. The most important thing in any draft horse is his legs. That is where you get the endurance, and then, his feet must be good. Look out for his feet and legs. That is where he gets his power.

And you want the legs under the corners, like a table. Build a horse and a table in the same way. You will be surprised if you will take the time to look at the different shapes of horses' legs. The table legs come down to strike the ground, and they are straight, and so you have the essentials to start with. But the horse's legs may turn out at the bottom, or he may be knocked over, or he may spread at the knees and the feet bend in, or his front legs may set too far apart or too far back.

I might go on to enumerate other positions of the feet and legs that are bad, but there is one thing I have noticed—you take a horse with the legs squarely under the corners and nine times out of ten he has a sloping shoulder and a short back.

Buying one for breeding purposes. I would not buy a long back at any price. While we have a number of laws governing the purchase of horses, I would judge a stallion rather by his good, strong back and his legs. If you have a good level back, plenty of length, with the help of sound joints and good feet, the rest can be done in feeding. I want a clean joint, not a joint that shows, and sound texture of both bones and muscular fiber. I cannot describe the bone I would prefer any better than by comparing it with a razor blade.

Take the razor with the back of the razor forward and you have a good description of the leg construction of the horse. You want what we call a medium bone. And in the selection of young stock take the horse, for instance, I buy a good many at four years old. They are long, hardy looking and comparatively thin.

They do not look prepossessing at all. I like to buy them at that time. You take one of those colts that is good, with a good set of legs and sufficient bone, and he makes a good horse. He should have heavy, sloping shoulders and good feet. And, though he may have a long head and his joints look big, I care nothing for that, but only for good bones, but the average farmer would say that he is too coarse. I know he will win out, and nine times out of ten he will make a high priced, perfect draft horse.

Succulent Feed For Lambs.

Recent experiments at the Iowa experiment station show that with corn at ordinary prices cheaper gains on lambs may be made with dry feed than with roots or silage. When corn and silage are low in price the gains made with silage are a little cheaper than those made with dry feed. The largest total gains were made by the lambs getting sugar beets, and the finish of this lot was also a little better. The lot getting turnips and cabbage required the largest amount of matter for each 100 pounds gain. Silage and dry feed came next. The least amount of dry matter was required where sugar beets and mangolds were fed. The chief objection to mangolds and sugar beets is the large amount of hand labor required to raise them.

Sheep on Roughage.

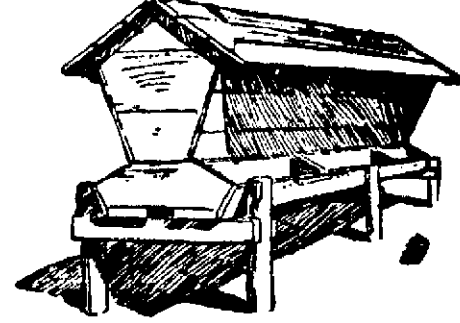

If corn is scarce sheep will beat hogs on pasture, provided they get plenty of corn, but when the hogs get plenty of corn they will range pretty well with sheep. Both animals have their place. Hogs are of no use to work at roughage. A small flock of sheep will do better than a large one.

A GOOD SELF FEEDER.

One That Is Constructed at Home Preferred to Factory Product.

Herewith is shown the picture of one of the most successful self feeders the writer has seen. Many farmers object to the factory made self feeder because it is too narrow on the base and the galvanized iron with which it is covered serves to heat the contents, while the edges of the iron are almost sure to become loosened and wound the stock.

This is practically certain to occur in the case of such feeders as are made for hogs. Again, the flat topped self feeder is objectionable for the reason that it will not exclude water unless covered with metal, when it becomes open to the objection noted above.

The self feeder shown in the cut was made for cattle, but was set low enough so that the calves could have access to it. By its use very little grain is wasted, and what falls to the ground is picked up by the hogs. This particular self feeder was set in an open feed lot near a cattle shed in which a hay bag came close enough to replace the manger.

It could be set in the shed, however, if thought desirable. In these days of the scarcity of farm help it is the brain work that is put into such little accessories as this that counts and helps to solve the problems which confront the present day farmer.

CLEANSING MILK VESSELS.

After a Thorough Washing They Should Be Set In Sunshine.

When washing milk pails, pans, cans, churas, etc., first wash them out with cold or cool water, is the advice of a well known dairyman. It is much better if you wash them twice with cold water. Next wash in water as hot as the hands can bear in which there is soap or soda. Scald in boiling water and wipe with clean towels. Milk vessels in which milk remains for any length of time should be set in the sunshine to air. All milk vessels containing seams can be more thoroughly washed with a brush.

The separator parts should be washed and scalded and sunned the same as the milk pails. A sunny kitchen window is the best place to sun and air them. When washing milk vessels all rust should be removed from tinware vessels, as rust affords the very best of hiding places for germs. The outside of milk pails and cream cans should be kept as clean as the inside. The exterior of the separator should also be washed off after each using. Leave apart until the next milking time.

The churn should be washed and scalded. Keep the outside clean. Wash the strainer with a brush, using cold water first, then hot water. If by neglect the meshes of the strainer become closed you may readily clean it with dry salt and a stiff brush. If you use a strainer cloth first rinse in two cold waters, then wash in hot water and soap. Rinse in cold water and hang on the line to dry.

If the straining is attended to late in the evening, for the sake of convenience the strainer cloth may be hung on bars or on a line in the house. Cloths and towels used for washing milk vessels should be white and sweet, never sour and soiled. When there are quite a number of milk vessels to be washed the cloths and towels should not be used for any other purpose.

The Type For Good Breeders.

Straight, strong legs are a necessity under breeding sheep, and the pasterns must be strong, and, although this is more important with rams, it affects ewes to the extent that they may drop rams for breeding purposes. When the sheep has been examined for mutton form, constitution, legs and feet the fleece should be carefully looked through.

THE SWINEHERD

When Putting Hogs In Pasture.

In putting hogs in pasture do not cut off the entire grain ration at once.

Don't Build Pens Near the House.

Pen begins a good distance from the house. They are neither good to see nor smell from the house.

Keep Sow While Teeth Are Good.

As long as her teeth are good do not sacrifice her, no matter how high the price of pork may go or how old she may be.

Market Pigs When "Ripe."

As soon as the pigs are in marketable condition—"ripe," as the butchers say, let them go. It does not pay to feed the animal after it is fit.

A Good Pasture Valuable.

Good clover pasture, pure water to drink and all the corn they will eat clean two or three times a day will prepare them quickly and economically for market.

Why Swine Become Stunted.

Many farmers neglect their swine in the busy of summer work, and the result is the hogs become stunted. In the fall they have not made adequate growth, and, besides, stunted swine do not finish well.

COUNTING A SCORE.

It Represents the Whole Man, Ten Fingers and Ten Toes.

Twenty is called a score because it represents the whole man, ten fingers and ten toes. Etymologically it means a cut or mark. In very early times, when men could not count beyond twenty, or "one man," it was usual to cut a notch in a stick and begin again, and so it went on, one man, two men, and so on. This is why sheep are still counted by the score. Now, a tally (French taille, cut or nicked) means an account kept by means of a notched stick, and until the end of the eighteenth century such sticks were given as exchequer receipts, accompanied by a written document. This was also the usual way of keeping accounts in the lums of the middle ages. The number of drinks or meals a customer had were scored against him on what was called a tally stick, and when it reached twenty, or a "whole man," he was expected to pay. In some English country inns scores are still kept on a slate, four chalk marks and one across—five—and four of those make twenty, or a score.—Westminster Gazette.

Escapes In War.

Until war ceases, which will be the greatest miracle of all, it will always be the exhibition ground of miracles. How can a bullet puncture a man's coat behind and before or pierce his boot and sock and be gravely shaken out of both without wounding him? And what mysterious channel does this human body contain which leads a bullet dexterously around the heart, a hair's breadth from the seat of life, yet never rending it—a phenomenon touched by more than one army surgeon? Shells have burst thunderously between the very legs of soldiers and left them still soldiers. Pom-pom shells of two inches diameter have passed through legs and arms without shattering the bone or bursting at the impact, though there appears to be literally no room for such a merciful performance. In fact, a history of the escapes in war would be wild reading even after a course of Munchausen.

Sharing His Bed.

A Grub street friend of Dr. Johnson's was Derrick, of whom he wrote, "I honor Derrick for his strength of mind." One night when Floyd, another poor author, was wandering about the streets he found Derrick asleep upon a bulk. Upon being suddenly awakened Derrick started up. "My dear Floyd," said he, "I am sorry to see you in this destitute state. Will you go home with me to my lodgings?" And they turned in on the bulk together like the good fellows they were.

Persons who really wish to become angels should make a start in that direction while they are yet mortals.—National Magazine.

Henry Bergholte of Stevens Point spent Sunday at the home of his brother, John F. Bergholte.

Miss Grancorvit of Weyauwega, who had made Amherst her home for a few months, returned home Wednesday.

H. H. Bobbe has just completed a large barn on his farm. The size is 40x90 with full basement nine feet high.

Christ Gilbert of Blair moved his family here last week. Mr. Gilbert is part owner of the Iverson brick block on Mill street.

Mrs. Ole Jensen, who has been ill for several days, was taken to Oshkosh to be operated on at the hospital. Mrs. O. H. Ness accompanied her.

Mrs. O. K. Welty, who has been caring for her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Imri Turner, for a few weeks, returned to her home at Tomahawk last Thursday.

LANARK.

Miss Sandholm of Amherst is visiting at the home of Mrs. Michael Lynch.

Our farmers feel happy over the shower that came this way Sunday night.

Miss Alma Wakefield of Waupaca is a visitor at the home of Robert Carey this week.

Miss Nellie Stinson of Belmont opened a two months' term of school in the Madley district Monday.

Miss Gertrude Meagher of Green Bay is spending her vacation with her brother, Rev. J. E. Meagher.

Mrs. Joe Sweetella spent a few days last week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Korda in Stevens Point.

School opened in Dist. No. 7, Monday, for a term of two months with Miss Lizzie Cauley of Custer as teacher.

Mr. Sorenson's little son has been ill for the past week. Dr. Webster was called Wednesday and the child is much better now.

Misses Agnes and Katherine O'Connor, who had been visiting relatives here, left for their home in Minneapolis Monday.

The baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. Lucht, who had its feet badly burned about three weeks ago, is now able to walk about the house.

The two Stevens Point young ladies who are taking a walk of 1,000 miles passed through here Monday at about four o'clock, having left the Point at 5 a. m.

The dance at Hardina's hall on Monday night was a success in every way. A large crowd attended and many compliments were paid to our Milladore orchestra, which furnished the music.

Another eleven inning game was won by our boys here Sunday, when they defeated Hewitt 7 to 6. Janousek, the "kid spit ball artist" of the locals, did the flinging stunt to perfection and with the exception of the second inning had our western neighbors at his mercy. Hewitt has a strong team and boast of having never been beaten before, our worthy Cracker Jax being the first to administer a defeat and spoil their chain of victories. The line up was as follows:

Milladore—N. Nutter, Varsha, Durst, Cramer, P. Nutter, Heintz, Holcomb, Haas, Daniels. Milladore—R. Gebert, Bazal, S. Gebert, Petersen, Merkeline, Janousek, Pacourek, Watruba, Fredricks.

Score by innings:
Hewitt—0 5 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—6
Milladore—2 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 1 0—7

Umpire, Cress; scorer, Cheney. While batting, Alex Merkeline of the locals had the misfortune to get struck in the face with the ball, it knocking several teeth loose and severely cutting his lip.

PLAINFIELD.

Elmer Peavy and family have been down from Hancock this week visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Scobie have been enjoying a visit from a nephew from California.

Alfred Emmes of Grand Rapids was a guest over Sunday of his wife's sister, Mrs. J. W. Bovee.

Fred Wedde, proprietor of the feed and sale stable, has been spending the week at Oxford with his son.

Mrs. Neva Prowd returned to Minnesota, Saturday. She came here to attend the funeral of A. W. McLaughlin, her stepfather.

News from the state of Washington announce two weddings of Plainfield people. Miss Nellie Riddle of Washington married to Ernie Schenck on July 7, 1910, and Chas. Cornwell married July 17th to Miss Edna Schenck.

ASBLEY.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Betger, last week Tuesday, a daughter.

Miss Myrtle Wilson of Stevens Point is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James Cater. Many in this section are busy nowadays picking raspberries, which are quite plentiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Simonis and daughter Doris went to Wausau to spend Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Mary Stark.

Our postmaster and family have been favored with tickets to Ringling Bros.' circus, which exhibits at Wausau Aug. 20th.

Mrs. E. Cater gave a surprise party last Friday for her niece, Miss Fern Neuman of Mosinee, it being the young lady's 14th birthday anniversary.

Miss Madge Cater entertained a number of young people last Wednesday in honor of her birthday anniversary. Ice cream and cakes were served and a jolly time had.

Mrs. F. Krendzinski of Chicago is visiting a few days with her sister, Mrs. Mike Botinski. The latter lady's daughter, Janie, will return to Chicago with her aunt.

When in Stevens Point step into Chas. A. Hamacker's store and see samples of corn and buckwheat grown in this section. The samples are from G. E. Burk's farm. In spite of the dry weather the corn stalks are eight feet long and are only average ones from an eight acre field. The buckwheat stands four feet and is so thick that Mr. Burk will have difficulty in cutting it.

MECHAN.

Mrs. Orrin Pike visited relatives at Oshkosh last week.

School began here Monday with Miss Theresa McGinley as teacher.

Mrs. Raymond will conduct church services and fill the appointment here next Sunday.

Ed. Hoffman of Casimir called here at the home of his brother, David Hoffman, Monday.

Ray Wood of Mill Creek is running Warner's threshing machine engine. Ray knows his business well.

Mrs. W. Wood of Linwood and Miss Grace Allen of Amherst visited at the Winkler home one day last week.

George Wagner of Big Flats, Adams county, called on friends here while returning from Stevens Point to his home.

Leon Worzalla of Plover, who recently purchased the Woloszek farm, was down here Friday looking after the same.

Miss Phyllis Gebert of Milladore visited here Saturday and Sunday with one of her old time schoolmates, Mrs. Isabel Parks.

The Kellner ball nine came over and played our local team Sunday. Of course they complained about the umpire, the grounds, etc., but the actual facts were 7 to 0 in favor of Meehan. Kellner played well but they certainly did pound wind.

A terrible fire has been raging in the swamp lands between here and Biron. The strong north wind Friday carried the fire to high land and did much damage to timber. Had it not been for the large crowds of men many buildings would have been destroyed. A barn on the old Benson place was burned regardless of the efforts to save it.

THOMAS H. HANNA

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR, 21st DISTRICT

OUR SUCCESS PLEASES

Kind Words From State Press Spoken in Behalf of Stevens Point and Division Changes.

The press of the state continues to present Stevens Point with bouquets on account of its success in securing a return of the Soo divisions, the following being a few of the latest welcome compliments:

Marshfield Times: There is a feeling that if Marshfield cannot have the division, it is most worthily placed in our enterprising neighbor city, which has made a progressive struggle the past several years worthy of being quoted and followed by all ambitious towns.

Rosholt Record: Stevens Point rejoices in a railway revival. From the doom when the Wis. Central moved its shops to North Fond du Lac, and thru a transfer of that R'y system to the Soo line, the county seat's prayer has been answered by President Pennington of the Soo making it both a passenger and freight division with the largest yards on the entire line, which will bring hundreds of families. The occasion was celebrated with a parade and speech last Thursday evening, and in honor of the event a switch-locomotive was named "Progress."

Weyauwega Chronicle: There is a new slang expression of late, which says that this one or that one "can't come back." Jim Jeffries is a charter member of the club and it numbers some such dead ones as Cannon, Parker and Ballinger. But our neighboring city of Stevens Point has shown that she can "come back." To this city is to be restored the honor and prestige and material benefits of being the general division point for all the freight and passenger crews of that part of the Soo railway formerly owned by the Wisconsin Central. The shops are not to be moved from Fond du Lac, but a large amount of repair work will be done at the Point, and it is expected that his move will bring 250 additional families there. Our congratulations to our neighbors.

Almond Press: Stevens Point residents have been indulging in an extended period of jollification. Well they might, and the whole of Portage county should join them. The cause of all this good feeling, is the certainty that the Soo line will establish division headquarters in that city, and thus bring prosperity. Congratulations and best wishes for our county seat.

New London Press: Stevens Point is jubilant over the fact that it is to be once more on the railroad map as a division point for the Soo. President Pennington decided Wednesday to grant their petition in view of the city's providing them a large plot of ground for additional trackage, vacating one street and building a subway on another so as to provide facilities for making up long freights. About 200 new families will come to the Point as a result.

Abbotsford Clarion: There is no question but that the removal of the railroad people from Abbotsford will be a serious financial and social loss, but what is to be will be, and regrets will not help to build up a town. It is up to those who remain to make good. There is no doubt but that with unceasing efforts Abbotsford will become one of the best towns in this section.

Marshfield News: The celebration indulged in by the people of Stevens Point last week over the return of the railroad shops was an event long to be remembered by its citizens. Five thousand took part and amid music, red fire and speeches the future of the place received a boost. Well they are deserving of anything they get from the Soo for no city along its line, in the pioneer days of the road, offered greater encouragements.

Waupaca Record: President Pennington of the Soo lines has announced to the people of Stevens Point that the division headquarters for the Soo lines would hereafter be at Stevens Point. This means a big boom for the point and the people there are pardonably jubilant.

Grand Rapids Tribune: There is every indication that Stevens Point will take a new lease of life in the near future and that the business interests of that town will experience a revival, the like of which has not occurred there for some time. The cause of all the excitement is the fact that the Soo line will make the Point its division headquarters, and it is expected that the change will bring to that city something like 250 employees. The citizens of Stevens Point are jubilant over the proposed change, and they have reason to be. When the Wisconsin Central railway removed their shops from Stevens Point eleven years ago, they left that city in a deplorable condition from a business standpoint, and it has taken them the greater part of the time since then to recover from the shock. But they have recovered, and they are to be congratulated upon the fact that once again they are to be favored by the establishment of another live business proposition. They are entitled to all they get out of it.

To the Farmers of Wisconsin.

September 6 falls in your busiest season. It is certain that on that day a good many duties will be pressing themselves upon you. The corn and potatoes will need attention, perhaps, and we hope there will be plenty of it to need that attention. The fall weeds will be working overtime, and it will seem to you that the quicker you and the men get after them the better. Something wrong may have broken out in the barn, or in the dairy, or in the poultry yard. Many are the cares and responsibilities of modern farming even in this great state of successful agriculture—Wisconsin.

But among all the duties of that day there is one that is paramount. September 6 brings the primary election. It brings a duty that does not call for action very often. It is a duty to yourselves, to your families, to your neighbors, to all the people of Wisconsin, to the people of the great republic, and even to the millions of alien peoples who look upon you as free men and fortunate men who are working out for yourselves and for them the great experiment of self-government.

It brings, moreover, a duty to the Democratic party. You who have stood steadfastly by the principles in which you believe, who have faced defeat in election after election, are again called upon to evidence your loyalty to Democracy. The situation is a critical one, perhaps more critical than any which has ever faced the Democratic party in this state.

Briefly the facts are these: A Republican legislature has passed a law requiring us to poll in each county at the primary September 6, twenty per cent of the Democratic vote cast for William J. Bryan in 1908. Failing in this, the Democratic party loses its claim on the ballot in the November election.

The seriousness of the situation can be realized only when we recall that in previous primary elections, the Democratic vote has averaged only about five per cent of the party strength.

Scatter these facts broadcast. Tell your neighbors what an unfair law the Republican party in the state has enacted, designed to destroy the Democratic party. Let us arouse the fighting spirit in every Democrat which will send him to the polls both on September 6 and on November 8th, and which will result in sending such a group of honest Democratic legislators to Madison that the iniquitous twenty per cent. clause of the primary law will be repealed.

No greater duty, no plainer, more unescapable duty, no more inspiring duty rests upon any shoulders than upon yours. It is often said, and said truthfully, that upon the farmers depends the prosperity of the nation. And this is true not only of its material prosperity, but also of its political and social prosperity.

Therefore, let the material duties wait upon the performance of the higher duty on this day of the Wisconsin primaries. Let the corn and potatoes wait your care a few hours. Let the complications in the dairy and stable go for a time. Hitch up the young colt you are proud of or the old bay mare. Take the hired man with you and go to the polling place to do your duty by voting as a true Democrat.

Do not wait for election day. September 6 is the critical day in Wisconsin this year. Mark it on the calendar and act when that day comes.

Teachers' Examinations.

Portage county teachers' examinations, summer of 1910, will be as follows:

Stevens Point, Aug. 9th and 10th.
Plover, August 12th and 13th.
Amherst, August 16th and 17th.
Almond, Aug. 22d and 23d.

Applicants should provide themselves with pens, ink and double sheet legal cap paper.

Examinations will begin at 9 o'clock a. m.
Dated at Amherst, Wis., July 29, '10.

What You Want, The Way You Want It And When You Want It

Boxing the Compass.

Boys who live in seaport towns are sometimes asked to "box the compass." If they can do it quickly and accurately they are fine sailors and may grow up to be the captain of a four master. If they miss a point or can only do it slowly they are land-lubbers and will never see blue water. To box the compass means to name all the points in order just as fast as you can speak. This is the way an old down east skipper will rattle it off: North, nor' by east, nor-nor-east, nor-east by north, northeast, nor-east by east, sou-east, sou-east by south, sou-sou-east, sou' by east, south, sou' by west, sou-sou-west, sou-west by south, sou-west, sou-west by west, west-sou-west, west by south, west, west by north, west-nor-west, nor-west by west, nor-west, nor-west by north, nor-nor-west, nor' by west, north. Can you do it?—Exchange.

"If."

Joseph Chamberlain, the English statesman, was once indebted to a nursery rhyme for a great oratorical bit. In one of his speeches he was criticizing Lord Beaconsfield and Lord Salisbury on their return from Berlin, where they had been carrying on negotiations with Bismarck. Both had made speeches explaining their actions, and one of them in the course of his oratory used the word "if" so many times as to give Mr. Chamberlain a chance in his reply to make one of those popular allusions which are remembered longer than any logic.

"What the honorable gentleman has said," he remarked, "remind me of a rhyme I learned from my nurse:

"If all the seas were broad and cheese,
If all the rivers were ink,
If all the lakes were currant cakes,
What should we have to drink?"

The effect on the audience was tremendous. No one ever forgot that "if."

Are Doctors Any Good?

Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently, trust him fully. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you. Ask your doctor. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Pills for constipation, biliousness, sick-headache, we would not offer them to you. Ask your own doctor about this.

Rioting by Grand Trunk strike sympathizers at South Bend, Ind., was resumed when a crowd of from 1,500 to 2,000 men and boys attempted to burn a freight car. After the car had been burning 30 minutes the fire department extinguished the flames.

QUEER CITY OF TROITSA

TOWER OF IVAN

THE queer old Russian town of Troitsa lies about forty miles from Moscow and is even more insular than its big neighbor. Neither foreigners, their architecture nor their customs have filtered past the frontier to this ancient retreat on the river Ramenka. Between here and Moscow the railroad runs through an almost unbroken line of pine woods in which stand pretty summer villas of the city. These houses are built of pine, the natural color, and recall the type of buildings existing in Moscow before 1812, a few of which may still be seen within inclosed courts.

When Kiev ceased to be the capital and the village of Moscow continued to grow in importance, Troitsa, the monastery of the Holy Trinity, began to compare with the Lavra of the older town. This was in the fourteenth century when Saint Sergius, humble as he was pious, lived and worked at Troitsa. As years passed the monastery accumulated fame and wealth, and in the eighteenth century it owned countless acres and over 20,000 serfs. Emperors and boyards have enriched its altars until today the Troitsa treasury of sacred vessels, ornaments and vestments is considered the most extensive and valuable in Russia. Since the last revolution the treasury is not shown to visitors and a current report has it that much of the most valuable plate and gems have found its way to Saint Petersburg to meet the drain of the Japanese war.

Russian monasteries have the appearance of fortified towns, as in truth they are. The Krim Tartar hordes failed to capture Troitsa, and in 1608, when the monastery was attacked by the Poles under Sigismund, the monks kept the besiegers, 30,000, at bay for 16 months. For just such emergencies the monastery has a reservoir capable of holding 9,000 pails of water. The grounds are inclosed with a high, covered rampart, two miles in circumference; great round towers guard each corner, and entrance is by four noble gateways. A walked around the ramparts with a young monk whose eyes sparkled as he showed me the best points for sighting the enemy, come what direction it might. The walls are pierced with loopholes for the monastery guns.

Though repairs are being made continually, yet there is an air of centuries resting upon the thick, gray walls, quaint, arched doorways and dark, narrow passages, that sets one dreaming. Peter the Great delighted in heavy, florid decoration and his taste is conspicuous in a huge, long building, the monks' refectory. The same tables and benches are used today as of old, generations of occupants succeeding one another. The monastery includes three churches and double that number of chapels, with a tall bell tower in the center. In a mortuary chapel lie buried former metropolitan bishops of Moscow.

Troitsa's famous shrine is the church of Saint Sergius, the convent where the good abbot ruled wisely and well. The decoration is richer than the most elaborate of any of the old Moscow churches. The doors of the iconostasis, the screen separating the sanctuary from the nave, are of solid gold with wonderful embellishment of sacred subjects. Flanking them either side are sacred pictures studded with jewels; the whole from floor to ceiling a mass of dazzling beauty. Walls and ceiling are frescoed completely with old Byzantine studies, broken and there with some rare old pictures with robe of beaten gold, or hammer silver and crown and necklace of pearls and precious stones. Saint Sergius rests in a catafalque of emerald and silver whose intrinsic value would ransom half the convicts in Siberia. I liked best the quaint architecture of the onetime convent, but it is difficult to trace, so much does the wealth of mural decoration obtrude on the eye.

In the open square is a gray stone obelisk commemorating the repulse of the Poles. It is inclosed with a fence made of the enemy's cannon and chain. At the base a number of pilgrims were resting as they munched at some black bread, while others were drinking from a sacred fountain, first throwing into the basin an offering of kopecks.

Two miles from Troitsa is another monastery of men, the Tschernoi. It is situated beautifully and is quite modern, having been built within the last 50 years. The monks own the land for miles around, hence there is no village nearer than Troitsa. The carriage road led through fragrant pine and in every direction I turned were avenues of it, stately isles of nature's temple. This monastery has two sections separated by a pretty inland lake. Only one is opened to the public and from the second, women are excluded.

Convents for women, if less numerous and less wealthy than those for men, are still vastly interesting from their intimate connection with the country's history. Moscow has several, the most celebrated being the Novo-Dievichi. Helen, "the maid," was its first abbess. The convent lies on the outskirts of the city where the Moskva curves around at the foot of the Sparrow Hills. Its ancient site was called the Maidens' Field, where tradition locates the market place at which the Tartars in olden times bought the pretty, fair faced Muscovite girls for the Mohammedan harems at Constantinople and Isphahan. One sunny afternoon, I found myself at the gates of the Maidens' convent, Novo-Dievichi. Two hospitable nuns invited me within their simple, but clean apartments, brought out steaming samovar, some black bread and jam and bade me rest and refresh myself. Afterwards they showed me their retreat.

Russian nuns wear an all-black costume, not a vestige of white is visible. Their time is employed in doing needlework for the church and outside patrons. Community rule is not rigorous nor secluded as that observed by the sisterhood of the Catholic church.

As we were strolling about the gardens I was continually hearing a clock striking. Then the gentle nun told how Peter, to annoy Sophia, as also to show her how time was passing and her chances to the throne becoming no nearer, built the bell-tower in which he placed a clock that would sound a gong every minute. On their way to Moscow the French army halted at the convent-fortress; Napoleon forbade any injury done it while the king of Naples ordered divine service to be celebrated daily, as usual. But later, after the French was again quartered there and on leaving, they endeavored to blow up the bell-tower where the stores were held. The heroic nuns interrupted the fired train and succeeded in saving the convent.

ARREST DR. CRIPPEN

ALLEGED WIFE SLAYER AND HIS STENOGRAPHER ARE IN CUSTODY.

TAKEN ON BOARD MONTROSE

Suspect Turns Deathly Pale While Female Companion Collapses When Arrested by Officers Disguised as Pilots—Taken to Quebec.

Montreal, Que.—After being fully identified by Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard, Doctor Crippen, who is charged with the slaying of his wife, known on the stage in London as Belle Elmore, was Sunday placed under arrest by Chief McCarthy of the Quebec provincial police, assisted by Chief Davis of the Dominion police on board the steamer Montrose at Father Point.

Two minutes after, Ethel Leneve, the stenographer, with the suspect, whom Crippen had long been infatuated with, was put under arrest in her cabin, still wearing the clothes of a boy.

Inspector Dew continued on his way to Quebec with his prisoners. There they will be arraigned before Judge Panet Angers, the purpose being to deport them to London. It is likely that Inspector Dew will board the Royal George for the return trip with his prisoners on Thursday.

Inspector Dew, with Chief McCarthy and ex-Chief Denis, all three disguised as pilots, went off to the steamship in a lifeboat rowed by four sailors. Crippen was smiling and promenading the deck with Miss Leneve and Doctor Stuart, the ship's doctor. He asked the doctor why so many pilots should come to which Doctor Stuart replied they were probably returning to their homes, being out of turn.

The supposed pilots walked along until they passed where Crippen and his paragon were with Doctor Stuart. As Inspector Dew got a good look at Crippen and Miss Leneve he gave the preconcerted signal and the constables made the arrest and brought the couple down to their own stateroom, where they are now confined with Inspector Dew.

Only 15 minutes elapsed from the time the constables went aboard until the arrests were effected. Crippen turned the color of death and his voice gurgled some unintelligible sound as he was hurried below. Miss Leneve became hysterical and collapsed.

DIE ON TEXAS RACE RIOT

Eighteen Blacks and Three Whites Are Killed in Pitched Battle
Near Slocum.

Palestine, Tex.—Following a pitched battle between the negro farmers of this section in which at least 300 blacks took part and three companies of state militia from Houston and Galveston and a detachment of state rangers fought for hours and, it is said, that 18 negroes have been killed and the bodies of three white men are lying in an improvised morgue in the little town awaiting the arrival of undertakers from Houston.

Beginning Friday afternoon the race riot between the negroes and whites waged continuously until Sunday night.

The rioting began near the village of Slocum. Several reasons are assigned as the cause of the racial feeling. First, the refusal of a negro to pay an obligation for which a white farmer stood sponsor.

Later came reports of secret meetings among the negroes and an alleged confession of a negro that the murder of the man in question, James Spurger, and his family was planned. The situation reached a climax, however, when a negro was discovered advancing on Spurger from the rear, armed with a shotgun. He was trailed for some distance and shot by a posse when he refused to surrender. With the shooting of the negro the rioting began.

Vatican Says Premier Canalejas Desires War and He Can Have It—Relations Badly Strained.

Rome.—Notwithstanding the extremely strained relations between the Vatican and the Spanish government, the recall of Marquis De Ojeda, the Spanish ambassador, has produced a great sensation in Rome.

The Vatican in a semi-official communication Saturday says the recall of the ambassador proves that the program of Premier Canalejas was not arranged with the hope of accord, but with a desire for fight, and the communication adds, he will have it.

SEEN AND HEARD IN WISCONSIN

La Crosse.—Excitement in the clam fishing craze which has been on here during the present low stage of water in the Mississippi, came to a climax when Jack Leonard, a day laborer, took a button pearl of beautiful luster and lavender color from a clam, and the gem is valued at $2,000. Leonard turned down the offer of a clam buyer for $1,800 cash. A large number of pearls worth from $50 to $500 each have been found within the past few days and hundreds are wading in the river.

Oshkosh.—The treasury of Winnebago county has to its credit the sum of $1,450.16, the county's share of the inheritance tax paid by the J. M. Bray estate. The total amount of inheritance tax assessed against the estate is the largest ever paid in Winnebago county since the inheritance tax law has been in effect. It is $20,379.40.

Superior.—Several cases of persons charged with selling liquor to Indians on the north Wisconsin reservation were taken up in federal court which opened here. The offenders were released upon payment of small fines. Deputy Marshal Hugh will bring a large number of Indians from Odanah for trial for taking liquor on the reservation.

Depere.—Milk dealers here have raised the price of cream from 24 cents to 32 cents per gallon on account of the scarcity of feed. Another result of the drought is the farmers are reducing the number of their cows. Animals bought for $60 earlier in the season can now be bought for $30.

La Crosse.—The national biennial convention of the Independent Scandinavian Workingmen's association granted the women equal voting rights, thus settling a long fought question. The Scandinavian Sisters of America elected these officers: President, Margaret Larson, Superior; vice-president, Ragan Christiansen, Menominee; secretary, Johanna Land, Superior; treasurer, Julia Larson, Ashland; marshal, Lena Anderson, Duluth, Minn.; trustee, six years, Mary Talcott, Black River Falls.

La Crosse.—After selecting Superior for the 1912 biennial convention, the Independent Scandinavian Working Men's association re-elected and installed the following officers: President, P. J. Smith, Eau Claire; vice-president, Asvie Queber, Minneapolis, Minn.; secretary, A. Milness, Eau Claire; treasurer, Lewis Larson, Cumberland; high physician, J. S. Kjelland, Crookston, Minn. The new directors are Nels Meyer, Olaf Bloom, J. Baumann, R. O. Helsom and Albert Nelson.

Ashland.—H. I. Pederson, Superior, state factory inspector, came to this city and caused the arrest of Raymond Martin, one of the foremen on the Clarkson Coal company's docks, on the charge of employing Ed. Mercer, Jr., contrary to the state law. Young Mercer is alleged to have been injured the first night he worked on the dock. Mr. Pederson declares that young Mercer is only fourteen years old and therefore that the boy's employment at night work was unlawful.

Fond du Lac.—M. Jackson, proprietor of a women's tailoring establishment, and his assistants, M. and Joe Silver, narrowly escaped death on Lake Winnebago when the small boat in which they were riding capsized during a heavy wind. The men clung to the craft, which was kept afloat by air chambers and finally succeeded in righting it. They were carried into shallow water and reached shore on the verge of prostration from their desperate battle.

Green Bay.—James M. Hansen, son of Martin H. Hansen, a farmer of Ashwaubenon, is believed to have suicided by blowing his head off with dynamite. The belief is that the young man laid on his back in a roadway a short distance from the farmhouse, placed the stick of dynamite under his head and then applied a match to the fuse. His head was severed completely from his body by the powder.

Racine.—Wilhelmina Kobjelski, after being told that her niece, Emma Dava, had been killed by a street car, fainted and died. She was thirty-nine years of age.

Madison.—State Bank Commissioner M. C. Bergh approved an amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Citizens' State bank of Welcome, Outagamie county, increasing its capital stock from $5,000 to $10,000.

Depere.—Examination for all grades of teachers' certificates will be held under the direction of County Superintendent of Schools Joseph F. Novitski in the West Depere high school on August 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Madison.—Miss Marlon Wilson, a young colored woman, is alleged to have attempted suicide by taking carbolic acid. It is said that she was discouraged through having lost a position as housekeeper.

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA ISABEL

BY RANDALL PARRISH

CHICAGO, ILL., 1900

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, a Massachusetts man marooned by Indians in Valparaiso, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was denounced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was hidden in a hotel. His attention was attracted by an Englishman and a young woman. Stephens rescued the young woman from a drunken officer. He was thanked by her, Admiral of the Peruvian navy, who, in return, told him that war had been declared between Chile and Peru and offered him the office of captain. He desired that first mate, the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the commission. Stephens met a motley crew, to which he was assigned. He gave them that instructions. They boarded the vessel. They successfully captured the vessel supposed to be the Esmeralda, through strategy. Stephens gave directions for the departure of the craft. He entered the cabin and discovered the English woman and her maid. Stephens quickly learned the vessel was a private yacht. It was Lord Darlington's private yacht, the Lord's wife and maid being aboard. He explained the situation to her. Then the first mate, Tuttle, laid bare the plot, saying that the Sea Queen had been taken in order to go to the Antarctic Circle. Tuttle explained that on a former voyage he had learned that the Donna Isabel was lost in 1753. He had found it frozen in a huge mass of ice on an island and contained much gold. Stephens consented to be the captain of the expedition. He told Lady Darlington. She was greatly alarmed, but expressed confidence in him. The Sea Queen entered a vessel in the fog. Stephens attempted to communicate. This caused a fierce struggle and he was overcome. Tuttle finally squaring the situation. Then the Sea Queen headed south again. Under Tuttle's guidance the vessel made progress toward its goal. De Nova, the mate, told Stephens that he believed Tuttle was acting as skipper, because of his queer actions. Stephens was awakened by crashing of glass. He saw Tuttle in the grip of a dream of religious mania and overcame him. The sailor upon regaining his senses was taken ill. Tuttle committed suicide by shooting. Upon vote of the crew Stephens assumed the leadership and the men decided to continue the treasure hunt, the islands being supposed to be only 200 miles distant. Tuttle was buried in the sea. Lady Darlington pronounced the service. Stephens, awaking from sleep saw the ghost, supposed to have formed the basis for Tuttle's religious mania. Upon advice of Lady Darlington, Stephens started to probe the ghost. He came upon Lieut. Sanchez, the drunken officer, who had been in Chile. He found that Tuttle's quest was for the gold of the island, which was read in the book of the dead. Stephens started the men into giving up the quest. Stephens announced that the Sea Queen was at the spot where Tuttle's quest was for the gold. He was anxious to go on in further search. De Nova and Stephens conquered them in a fist fight. Lady Darlington thanked him. The Sea Queen sailed northward. Stephens was wrecked in a fog. Stephens, De Nova, Lady Darlington and her maid being among those to set out in a life boat. Ten days later, Stephens, De Nova, Lady Darlington and her maid were rescued. Stephens revealed himself as the school child of Stephens' sister. She expressed a wish to die in the sea. With All My Strength I Flung Myself Forth—Straight Out Into the Sea.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Continued.

The negro Cole acted as though he had lost his mind, entirely, and after studying him awhile I concluded to let him do as he pleased. He ate breakfast with the rest of us, but without speaking, and afterward, when we left the table, picked up the cleaver and made directly for the lazarette. I called to him, but he merely rolled his eyes up at me from the blackness below and disappeared, the icy water splashing underfoot. We soon heard him vigorously slashing away at the ice, muttering constantly to himself. I went part way down the ladder, with a candle in my hand, whence I could see him toiling away at the end of the hole the men had excavated in the ice, though he paid no attention to my call. The water was fully six inches deep over the lazarette deck, splashing back and forth as the vessel rolled, and I could see drops of seawater squeezing in through the sides of her and dripping steadily down. There was nothing to do but leave the fellow alone, so after toiling hither to look down the ladder once in a while and keep an eye on him I joined the others on deck.

"Gone clear nutty," commented McKnight, tapping his head. "The very sight of them yellow boys was too much for him."

"I only hope it wasn't my blow," I said soberly.

"Blow—hell! Why that crack never hurt his skull, Mr. Stephens. The fellow was plumb crazy as soon as the box was open. He never thought there was so much money in the world. Why, you ought to 'a' heard him tell of the junk he was going to buy when he got his share back to the States. Oh, he'll come out of his dream all right if we only let him alone for a day or so."

So we left him down there alone, peeping away in the dark. He came up, however, at the call for dinner, eating away heartily without uttering a word and going back to his solitary labor, paying not the slightest heed to any of us. When night came I compelled him to remove his icy trousers and boots and lie down in one of the bunks. When I looked in a few minutes later he was sound asleep.

That the wreck was slowly settling down under us was beyond doubt, and laden with ice as she was the sudden hull would probably drop at last like a stone. The thickening sky to the southward made me exceedingly anxious; and just before dark we talked the conditions over together, each man having his say. The decision was to remain on board, all alike believing the Donna Isabel would keep afloat several days yet, unless the weather became serious. Everything was made ready, however, for a hasty escape, and a deck-watch set.

Doris passed the greater part of my watch on deck with me, and as Kelly was on the poop we were the nearest to being alone together we had ever been. It was an exceedingly dark night, but still an awful sense of loneliness brooding over the black waters, the canvas forward flapping mournfully, the huge rudder continually creaking to the slap of the waves, and a faint gurgle of water sounding from below. The dreariness of it affected us both, in spite of an effort at cheerfulness; besides, we had little to talk about except our perilous situation. Yet there was an acute pleasure in thus being together, and so she lingered on beside me, her eyes wandering from my face out into the gloom, much of the time silent, yet content. Finally, after urging her to go in out of the chill, I took a turn forward, even clambering up the ice hummock to the fore peak, and testing the rise of water with a measuring rod. As I returned aft, where Kelly was snapping himself to keep warm, a light flaky snow began falling and soon powdered the decks.

I did not undress, but flung myself on the couch in the main cabin after replenishing the fire, and lay there some time, staring up at the smoky deck-beams, listening to the slush of water in the lazarette, half-frightened by the suddenness of the hulk's rolling. Yet my conviction that she would keep afloat for hours yet finally lulled me to sleep.

De Nova woke me with a fierce grip on the shoulder, and I started up, noting the gray dawn on the front windows, and reading the truth in his face before he uttered a word.

"Is she going?"

"Oui, Oui; by gar, she sink quick!"

"Call all hands; get the boat clear and ready to swing. I'll bring the women."

The men were tumbling out as I pounded on the after state-room door. A glance through the stern-ports brought my heart into my throat, the crests of the pursuing waves were so close. Knowing that both women would be fully dressed, I flung open the door and began hastily gathering up their belongings. Within a brief minute we were outside on the deck. A single glance told us there was no a madman, every instant an agony; and then, all at once, I found the crest and breathed in the welcome air, my stiffened limbs moving mechanically, my brain throbbing with pain. I could see nothing until a huge roller flung me upward, buffeting my face with icy spray, and there, below in the hollow, tossed the long-boat, every pallid face staring up at me. I saw them frantically back water, as the great surge hurled me down headlong. I was beside them; they clutched at me and missed. The stern, swung suddenly about by the blow of the sea, loomed over me, and then my fingers gripped a dripping oar-blade. God knows how I ever clung to it, wrenched by that sea—how the strength remained in my numbed hands; but some one twisted a boat-hook in the collar of my jacket, and so they hauled me, dripping and half-conscious, over the gunwale. I saw Doris. I looked into her eyes. I felt her bare hands on my wet cheek. I think it was the simple touch of her that gave me back life and comprehension of my condition. I endeavored weakly to lift my head, fighting against the awful numbness that held me prostrate. Everything seemed a dream, yet in that dream I heard De Nova's voice:

"Take him forward zore, dam' quick! Strip ze wet clothes off, or he freeze dead. By gar, jump you, Kelly, an' get blanket roun' him!"

"I hardly know what they did, for I scarcely retained sufficient life to realize that I was still alive; but, when I was fairly warm beneath a pile of blankets, I saw Doris sitting where she could look down into my face, and the men busy stepping the mast and getting up sail. I pushed my hand out from under the covers and found hers.

"Don't cry, little girl," I whispered tenderly; "it is all right now."

She bent down, her cheek pressed against mine, unable to speak.

"Did—the Donna Isabel go down?" I asked, after a moment's silence.

"Yes, and—and it nearly caught us," her voice sobbing, as the memory of it all came back. "I—I saw you jump and then there was nothing—nothing but the sea. Oh! how did God ever save you—ever bring you back to me?"

I could only press her hand under the warmth of the blankets, still feeling it difficult to breathe.

"Did—you see Cole?" she questioned at last, more calmly.

"No, but I heard him; he was down in the lazarette, chopping at the ice poor devil."

I felt her shiver; then she lifted her head, looking forth over the sea.

"To the very end the dead are doomed to guard that gold," she said soberly. "I wish we had none of it aboard." I lay watching the delicate profile of her face, happy, yet with a little of foreboding.

"Lift me up a little, dear, until I can look about."

She did so with much gentleness, and I leaned against the gunwale. It was a raw, cloudy morning, sea and sky the same dull, dreary expanse of gray, with nothing anywhere to relieve the awful loneliness of water on which we tossed. Our eyes met and our handclasp tightened.

CHAPTER XXIX.

In Which We Fight Death.

I remember distinctly enough the first six days of that boat voyage; it seems as if every detail was burned upon my brain with fire. I see the faces of the men constantly becoming more haggard and hopeless as they stared, dull-eyed and aimlessly, out over the endless waste of water to the dun sky. We were so tired of it; it had grown so hateful in its pitiless vacancy, its dull, dreary void. It seemed to me that with every recurring dawn those within the boat appeared older, grayer, more deeply lined; their exposed flesh caked more heavily with the salt spray; their limbs cramped from confinement and cold; their eyes more and more heavy with despair. They conversed with some effort at cheerfulness at first, figuring on the speed with which we sailed, dividing up the treasure, counting the gold pieces, and speculating upon their probable value. But depression followed swiftly as day merged into day, with only that same desert of tumbling waters stretching about us, that same wild sky overhead. Finally the growling voices ceased entirely, the fellows becoming moody and sullen, scarcely answering even when addressed.

TO SERVE TOMATOES

VARIETY OF COMBINATIONS FOR HEALTHFUL VEGETABLE.

Can Be Served Three Times a Day for a Week and Never Twice Alike —Cancer Theory Exploded.

The housekeeper whose family scorns tomatoes is to be pitied. They can be used three times a day, every day for a week and never need they be served twice alike.

Some time ago there were rumors that the tomato was bad for cancerous troubles, also must be dreaded by rheumatics. This theory is exploded and the tomato is considered healthful even in quantities.

Tomatoes are sometimes disliked because they are served monotonously. Stewed, baked or fried are the three variations.

Why not, instead of ordinary baked tomatoes, stuff them with the highly seasoned remnant of yesterday's meat or chicken put through a grinder and mixed with a cream dressing?

Another good stuffing is cold macaroni, from which the sauce has been washed off, mixed with chopped green peppers. When the breadcrumb stuffing is used have you ever covered the top thickly with cream or Parmesan cheese?

The average fried tomato is unpalatable because it is stewed to death. Try frying the raw, sliced tomatoes in plenty of butter to which a little lard is added to prevent burning. Cook slowly until done, then remove most of the tomatoes, add a little more butter rubbed with flour, and cream to make a thick dressing. If you do not mind the tomatoes being broken they can be returned to this gravy over the stove, otherwise it is poured over them. Season highly.

Instead of plain tomato salad try stuffing the icy cold peeled tomato with asparagus tips. Cover with mayonnaise.

Another form of salad is to cut the whole tomato into six sections without cutting through. Keep it looking as if whole, fill the opening with chopped Brussels sprouts and olives mixed and soak for half an hour in French dressing. When serving put mayonnaise on the top. The cutting enables the seasoning to permeate more rapidly and the salad can be more easily eaten.

Chocolate Cake.

Ingredients.—Four ounces flour, three ounces castor sugar, three ounces butter, two ounces grated chocolate, two eggs, one teaspoonful baking powder.

Method.—Beat butter to a cream, add sugar, then mix chocolate, flour and baking powder together, add the eggs, and a little vanilla flavoring. Put into a shallow tin and bake half an hour. For the icing take six ounces sugar, one ounce of grated chocolate, a small piece of butter, two tablespoonful water. Put water, chocolate and butter into a saucepan and let it dissolve, then add sugar and beat up well until smooth, spread over cake when nearly cold.

To Iron Woolens.

Instead of ironing underwear directly with the iron on them (which disintegrates the fiber and puts them in an early grave), put a common sheet of newspaper between the clothes and the iron, and note the result. The same applies to woolens and any other fabric. If goods of delicate shades are being ironed, use paper without printing on it. The further advantage of the process is this: The iron runs smoothly over the paper without sticking, and it does not pull the clothes out of shape, as is the case when a cloth is interposed, as the paper surface is flat, stiff and smooth.

Small Custard Tarts.

The best way to make these is to line the patty-pans with a shortbread mixture instead of the ordinary pastry, which is apt to get sodden with the custard. Crumble together six ounces flour, two ounces rice-flour, two ounces castor sugar and four ounces butter. Press this firmly into the tins to make coating, fill up with custard, grate a little nutmeg on top, and bake in a moderate oven for about thirty minutes. These must be eaten fresh.

Lemon Butter.

Wash three lemons, grate the yellow rind, and squeeze out the juice. Beat three eggs lightly with a pound of sugar, add a half tablespoonful butter, three-fourths of a cup of water, and the lemon juice and rind. Mix well and cook five minutes, or until thickened. Turn into jelly glasses and keep on hand for sandwiches, tarts or cake filling.

Raisin Nut Cakes.

Six eggs, two teaspoons sugar, three and one-half cups flour, one cup butter, one and one-half cups sweet milk, one cup walnuts, two pounds raisins, one wine-glass brandy, two teaspoons baking powder, spices to taste. Bake in moderate oven.

Tender Asparagus.

By soaking the entire stock, one-half day, in clear cold water, and afterward cook in the same water, it will be found that the entire stock will be tender and succulent.

Merely a Prevaricator.

A doctor relates the following story: "I had a patient who was very ill and who ought to have gone to a warmer climate, so I resolved to try what hypnotism would do for him. I had a large sun painted on the ceiling of his room and by suggestion induced him to think it was the sun which would cure him. The ruse succeeded and he was getting better rapidly when one day on my arrival I found he was dead."

"Did it fail, after all, then?" asked one of the doctor's hearers.

"No," replied the doctor, "he died of sunstroke."

Quainted.

A prominent western attorney tells of a boy who once applied at his office for work.

"This boy was bright looking and I rather took to him."

"Now, my son," I said, "if you come to work for me you will occasionally have to write telegrams and take down telephone messages. Hence a pretty high degree of schooling is essential. Are you fairly well educated?"

"The boy smiled confidently.

"I be," he said.—Independent.

Two Hundred Million Dollars a Year Might Be Added to Wealth of Country.

Computing that there are in the United States at least 300,000 indigent consumptives who should be cared for in charitable or semi-charitable sanatoria and hospitals, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis estimates that the annual cost to the country for the treatment of these persons would be $50,000,000 at the rate of $1.66 per day per patient. At the lowest possible estimate the country loses $200,000,000 a year from the incapacity of these indigent victims of tuberculosis. This would mean a net saving of $150,000,000 a year to the United States if all victims of consumption who are too poor to afford proper treatment in expensive sanatoria were cared for at the expense of the municipality, county or state. And this annual gain does not include the enormous saving that would accrue from the lessened infection due to the segregation of the dangerous consumptives in institutions.

SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

"I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on her head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about 18 months old.

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 663 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1909."

Clever Joke of Kind King. King Edward's great nature was illustrated the other night by a London correspondent at the Press club in New York.

"The king," said the correspondent, "was visiting Rufford Abbey, and one morning, in company with his host, Lord Arthur Savile, he took a walk over the preserves.

"Suddenly Lord Arthur, a big burly man, rushed forward and seized a shabby fellow with a dead pheasant protruding from the breast of his coat. "'Sir,' said Lord Arthur to the king, 'this fellow is a bad egg. This is the second time I've caught him poaching.' "But the king's handsome face beamed, and he laughed his gay and tolerant laugh.

"Oh, let him go," he said. "If he really were a bad egg, you know, he wouldn't poach."

HORTICULTURE

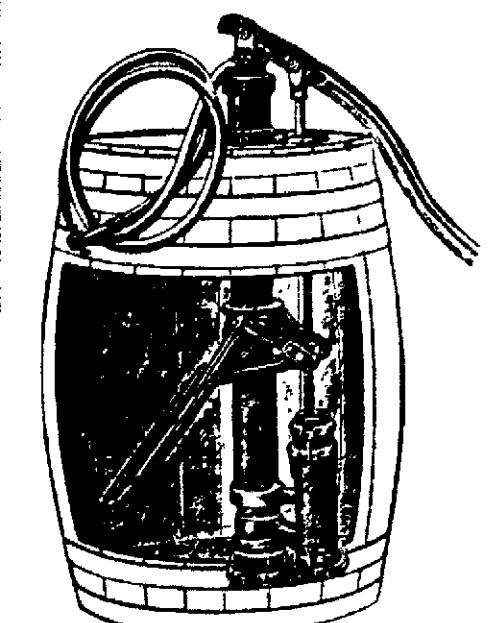

MANY BENEFITS OF SPRAYING

Non-Sprayers Lost Their Trees, While Those Who Did Spray Saved Their Orchards.

The good results following spraying of orchards is now so evident that those who were indifferent to its use all along are now turning their attention to it; that is, those of this class who have any trees alive. The greater number of those who did not spray have now no trees alive, or not alive enough to make spraying them worth while.

The writer visited an orchard in Pennsylvania late in the fall just as the apples were being stored as gathered from the trees and it was a genuine pleasure to see the bins of the fruithouse filled with the splendid fruit. The owner of the orchard believed in spraying and his apples showed it. The most pleasing feature of all was to find the annual sprayings had cleared the trees of scale, not a trace of the pest being visible on any of the fruit, while the trees appeared entirely free from it.

Those who have kept pace with events and have sprayed their trees while others did not, are now receiving their reward. The non-sprayers have lost their trees, while those who did spray saved their orchards.

GIANT HIMALAYA IS CHOICE

Berry Has Rapidly Grown in Popular Favor in Last Five Years—Hardy as an Oak Tree.

The Giant Himalaya berry was introduced five years ago by the Charles A. Lily company, Seattle, Wash. Since that time it has covered California, Washington and Oregon. It has been found to be the best paying blackberry from a commercial standpoint, and is as hardy as an oak tree. The bloom is shell pink the size of a peach bloom, berries jet black, oblong in shape, sweet and have a port wine flavor. It throws its fruiting canes from the main canes 12 to 18 inches long by 10 to 12 inches wide, having 50 to 100 blooms and later fruits. Almost all other blackberries have 10 to 15. The Giant Himalaya is also excellent for covering old buildings, walls, summer houses, etc. It looks fine trained to a post in the lawn, tying the canes to the post. When they reach the top, pinch them back (say two inches) they will then branch out and form a bush or weeping tree, that is a beautiful sight in July with its shell pink blossoms.

Spraying Fruit.

Spraying is a preventive and not a remedy. There are a few fungus diseases that can be destroyed by spraying, but they can also be prevented by the same operation. The damage done by a disease or an insect can be repaired only by the plant itself. Such work as can be done to protect it from further damage is about all that can be done for it. Spraying should be done early and the protection made more complete before the diseases and insects appear.

Hens in the Orchard.

Hens will pick up many insects if allowed the run of the orchard, to the advantage of both hens and orchard. Roosting in the tree, though, should be prevented.

PROPER METHOD OF PRUNING

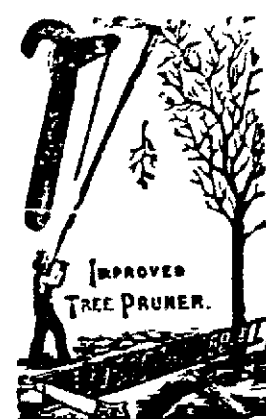

To Get Best and Quickest Results Apple Tree Should Be Seven Years Old Before Cut.

The common method of pruning apple trees is to thin out the top and center of the tree to let in the sunshine and air. All the small feeble-looking limbs and fruit spurs are carefully cut out of the center until the limbs left to form the tree have for the first three or four feet a clean, bare, hoop-pole appearance, with no bearing wood in the center of the tree, writes J. C. B. Heaton, in Farmers' Review.

To get the best and quickest results an apple tree should have no pruning until five to seven years old, except taking out sap-sprouts and cutting back the long limbs to induce a short stocky growth. At about the age of five or seven years a thorough, systematic pruning should be given, cutting out only limbs three-fourths of an inch and up in diameter, leaving enough of the larger limbs to form the head or top of the tree. All small straggly limbs of feeble growth and all fruit spurs, especially in the center of the tree, should be left. These are the limbs and spurs that will bear the first crop of fruit. If once removed these fruit limbs and spurs are never renewed, but their place is filled with sap sprouts that are an everlasting nuisance and have to be removed yearly. Whenever you remove fruit limbs, which are always of a feeble growth, or fruit spurs from young trees you are taking that much from your first two or three crops of apples.

One seldom goes into a bearing orchard but he finds great vacant places four to six feet in diameter in the center of nearly every tree that never has and never will produce an apple. This vacancy is where the first two or three crops of apples should be grown and such cutting out delays the bearing period two or three years. Every one attempting to prune a young orchard should know that it takes a thrifty, vigorous growing young tree three to five years to develop a fruit bud. Without such knowledge he cannot appreciate the value of fruit spurs and limbs that show a tendency to early fruiting.

Until an orchard is ten to fourteen years of age it is seldom necessary to thin out the small fruit limbs and fruit spurs, but after the bearing habit is once established and the trees get an abundance of bearing wood it becomes necessary to thin out all through the tree. Trees should be headed low and kept low by cutting out the tops for convenience in spraying. Too many large limbs should be avoided by judicious pruning the first going over and at all times the tree should be kept thin and sufficiently open, that all apples get the color and size that is characteristic of the variety. When ever an orchard under good cultivation produces apples of under size and off color the pruning should be looked after.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

The rambler rose should be pruned just as soon as it has done blooming. It is not too early to make cuttings of flowers for winter blooming in the window garden.

Always have materials for Bordeaux mixture at hand so that they may be used on any spare day.

Blackberry vines should be cut back as soon as the crop is off. Do not let too many new canes remain.

It does not pay to plant crops in the peach orchard. Some people do it, but we believe it is a bad practise.

Apple pickers should remember that the least puncture to the skin of an apple results sooner or later in a rotten spot.

Order evergreen trees and shrubs in time so that they can be set out the latter part of August or early in September.

Carnations intended for winter blooming should not be allowed to flower. Pinch off the buds as soon as they appear.

Trees exposed to the direct rays of the sun on a hillside should be protected or they are likely to be injured by sun-scaid.

If the leaves of your apple and peach trees show dark green and the growth is vigorous, you may know that the soil is all right.

The bluish on an apple may not at once develop into rot, but it will make a brown spot, which disfigures and lessens the value of the fruit.

The Oregon experiment station has decided that the scab on the prunes which is more or less troublesome to them is caused by the weather and not by fungus growth.

If you observe that the shoots on your trees grow only five or six inches every year you may know that the soil needs to be from fifteen to thirty inches every season.

Fritz the gardener was a stolid German who was rarely moved to extraordinary language. Even the most provocative occasions only caused him to remark mildly on his ill-luck. Not long ago he came back from the city in the late evening after a hard day in the market place. He was sleepy, and the train being crowded, the baggage-man gave him a chair in his roomy car.

Finally the train reached Bloomfield. Fritz still slept as it pulled in and his friend had to shake him and tell him where he was.

"I thanks you," said Fritz, as he rose slowly to his feet. The open door of the car was directly in front of him. He walked straight out of it.

The baggage-man sprang to look after him. Fritz slowly picked himself up from the sand by the side of the track, looked up at the door, and said with no wrath in his voice: "There should here be some steps."

Judges' Wigs.

The wig is only worn by English barristers to give them a stern judicial appearance, and no one can say that it fails in this respect. The custom was originated by a French judge in the seventeenth century when, happening to don a marquis' wig one day, he found it gave him such a stern and dignified appearance that he decided to get one for himself and wear it at all times in court. This he did, and the result was so satisfactory from a legal point of view, that not only judges, but barristers, also, took up the custom throughout Europe.

A Trip to PAULO AFFONSO FALLS in Brazil

By H. W. FURNISS

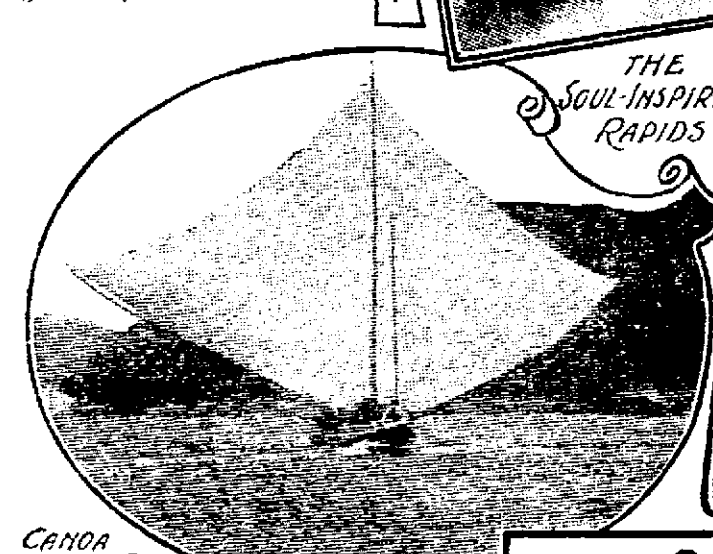

THE QUAY AT PENEDO

ABUQUINHO FALLS

THE SOUL-INSPIRING RAPIDS

CANOA UNDER FULL SAIL

PIRANHAS LOOKING TOWARD PAULO AFFONSO

COWBOY OF THE PAULO AFFONSO DISTRICT

EW tourists ever have more than a glance of a very small section of Brazil, as they travel by large steamers which only touch at the more important coast cities and they accept, without question, the volunteered advice of resident fellow-countrymen who have never traveled in the interior of the country. These speak as if from personal knowledge, though in reality falsely, of the difficulties, if not danger, to such travel.

Though there is individuality in all cities, more striking in some than in others, yet after all, as a result of civilization, there is so marked a similarity that one soon tires of most foreign cities. This monotony seldom extends to travel in the interior of a country, at least not in Brazil, which abounds in enchanting scenery, remarkable plants, flowers and animals, and marvelous works of nature, giving to the traveler a new sensation at every turn. Such is the effect of a trip to the Paulo Affonso falls.

To reach Paulo Affonso falls it is necessary to take a coastwise vessel from Pernambuco or Bahia to Penedo, about 30 miles up the wonderful San Francisco river, which is navigable, except for a short distance on both sides of the falls, for over 1,000 miles into Brazil, and is full of interest from mouth to source.

Penedo is the second largest city in the state of Alagoas. Almost opposite Penedo is the ancient town of Villa-Nova in the state of Sergipe. The town is said to have once been an important place, but now chiefly consists of tumble-down houses. A large rice-hulling factory is, however, located here, also large cotton-seed and castor-oil factories and a cotton gin. The products of these factories are shipped to nearby towns.

From Penedo to Piranhas, the head of navigation of the lower San Francisco, or that part of the river below the falls district, one has choice of making the trip either by small double-decked light-draft stern-wheel steamer, which makes a round trip once a week, or by a locally built native sailboat called "canoa."

Canoa is Portuguese (the language of Brazil) for canoe, which it resembles in outline, but differs therefrom in having in the forward third a peculiarly shaped palm-leaf-thatched cabin with dove-cot-like windows painted a dark color, contrasting with the other woodwork. Other than a shelf-like affair running around on a level with the windows and used either as seat or bunk, as occasion warrants, the cabin has no furnishings. The rest of the boat, except an area over the rudder on which stands the helmsman, and the small space occupied by a built-in box filled with sand, on which the cooking is done, is utilized as cargo space and is sufficient to carry from 10 to 20 horses or oxen, packed crosswise like sailines.

The size and character of the boat does not appeal to our idea of a canoe. Such a boat, with its crew of two men, can be chartered at a reasonable figure, while frequently a passage can be arranged for at a reduction on steamer rates.

Whether to take steamer or canoa is difficult to advise; that would depend upon the temperament of the traveler, the company and the circumstances. In the various trips of the writer, steamer or canoa has been used, in accord with mood or necessity. As to time, one method is about as quick as the other, each consuming two days in going the 150 miles and like time in returning. The steamer remains at Piranhas but one day, so that, unless it is desired to consume a week in the neighborhood of the falls, the canoa offers the only quick return to Penedo. On the steamer meals are procurable, while on the canoa provisions must be supplied by the voyager or arranged for with the captain. In either case it is wise to take some prepared food, as the cooks make chiefly native dishes, which require an educated palate for appreciation. Whether by steamer or canoa, unless mosquito proof, one must of necessity have a mosquito bar; a hammock or camp bed is a wise provision. In the daytime mosquitoes are not troublesome, but with the setting of the sun, when the boats usually tie up for the night, they become excessively annoying.

Voyage by canoa is both romantic and thrilling. Every day, commencing at ten o'clock, off Penedo, a stiff breeze arises and blows upstream with such force that the canoas, with their large sails spread, resembling at a distance huge bats, seem to fly upstream, frequently with such speed as to overtake and pass the steamer, which has left some time before. The river is practically straight, and the farther up one goes the more and Gararu, in the state of Sergipe, and S. Braz, Traipu and Pao d'Assucar, in the state of Alagoas. All of these places are of sufficient interest to warrant short stops. They are the river ports of large sections in which cotton, beans, corn, rice and cattle are raised in large quantities. Rice is chiefly raised along the river itself and in ponds formed adjacent thereto when the river is in freshet.

Pao d'Assucar is so called because of a large hill on the river front which resembles a sugar loaf, but, unfortunately for the town, it acts as a barrier to the wind and causes the sand to be thrown up in such quantities that the portion of the town adjacent thereto has to be periodically excavated.

Piranhas is a picturesque village built in terraces around the curve of a practically barren hill. At this point one hears much of the "piranhas," or scissor fish, a terror along the whole San Francisco river, though said to be in greater numbers here than elsewhere. This fish has a peculiar shaped head with serrated teeth bent backward. It is of carnivorous propensities, frequently attacking and biting pieces out of animals which go down to the river to drink. Even men are said to have been victims to it.

From Piranhas there is a railroad to Jatoba, 71 miles distant, where navigation for the upper San Francisco is resumed. A little more than half way to Jatoba is the Falls Station, a desolate place with only a closed station house surrounded by a thicket, travel to the falls being too light to warrant even a caretaker. It is best, therefore, to stop at Pedras, a small village reached just before the station. Here guides, horses and food can be procured for the rest of the journey, which will take from two to three hours' riding.

The ride to the falls is best made very early in the morning, otherwise the heat is so intense that the trip would not be enjoyable. The road is frequently through dense thickets in which are found oncas (felix concolor), small wild cats, deer, preta (cavea aperea) a ratlike animal hunted by the natives, wild hog (djicotyles), several varieties of small monkeys, and birds. Here parrots, paroquets, wild pigeons and doves occur in flocks. In the dry season snakes, particularly rattlesnakes, are seen in great numbers, doubtless due to the drying up of the short, stiff grass, which renders them more visible.

Paulo Affonso seems to have moods, its appearance markedly differing with the seasons, or, more properly speaking, with the volume of water in the river, which is dependent upon season. The writer has made the trip there at the three it is hemmed in by the hills along its banks, so that the canoa has the full benefit of the breeze, which follows the turns of the river.

Between Penedo and Piranhas there are several towns of importance, the chief of which are Propria ther parks, houses, nor work of man. Instead, it remains unadorned, as it has been for centuries, with its almost barren banks standing like walls and more resembling cast iron than, as they are in reality, rock painted black by the iron and manganese held in solution by the water when the river is in freshet.

Living near the falls are a few men who, knowing the most accessible footpaths to the various points of interest, will act as guides for a small fee. However, they are not obtrusive or insistent in proffering their services; on the contrary, one has to make inquiry to find them.

The falls are slightly crescentic in form. The main body of water rushes down the steep incline of the last rapids to the Mai da Cachoeira, where it hurls itself with great momentum against a steep black wall directly in front of it, rebounds, swishing, swirling, churning and foaming, only to be pushed over the abyss, at a right angle to its original course, by the dancing, foaming waters of the Angiquinho before the water can recover its natural appearance. The width of the river at this point is about 50 feet, and the depth of the water at the base of the falls is given as 86 feet. The river then rushes straight on for a few hundred feet, only to be hurled back by a rock wall 300 feet high, forming the lower whirlpool, from which it finally escapes at a right angle and passes for some miles through a narrow gorge.

The guide next leads one to the river above, where, hemmed in by low banks of black rock, it is broad and quiet, with nothing to suggest the turbulent waters just left. Continuing upstream, one seems numerous islands, mere rocks projecting like monuments from the water, and notes that already the water has commenced to hurry.

A short distance below the river makes its first leap of 20 feet. This is followed by the "Vai-vem de Cima" (upper come and go), a miniature whirlpool, where the water ebbs and flows at off-repeated intervals. Farther on, the rock banks of the river approach each other and through clefts in the rock the river is compressed into five narrow branches, four of which immediately start their descent by tumbling 15 or 20 feet and, becoming a mass of seething foam, rushes down the steep incline with a fury that almost causes the earth to shake and with a roar that can be heard for miles, thus forming the soul-inspiring rapids.

According to the guide, the trip to Paulo Affonso would not be complete without a visit to what he styles the wonderful "Furna do Morcego" (bats' cave). To see this one is induced to climb, crawl, and, if not very careful, fall down the zigzag path leading to the edge of the lower whirlpool where, after literally scrambling over the rubbish thrown up by it, one is conducted to the large gaping entrance to the cave. The cave itself is disappointing. It is nothing more than a large opening in the bank, and is uninteresting unless one expects the great number of vampire bats which inhabit it. These are very troublesome to the cattle raisers in the vicinity.

From the mouth of the cave one has a good view of the whirlpool, but with thoughts of the whirlpool, but with thoughts of the difficult climb necessary to return it is doubtful if this side trip has been worth the trouble.

principal stages of the river and notes that the cataract itself does not change much in form as a result of volume of water. However, when the river is in freshet additional cataracts are formed by the water passing through the ravines, which at other times are dry, and leaping over the high cliff direct into the lower whirlpool. The rapids, on the contrary, are materially changed by any deviation in the volume of water and, were they approachable when the river is high, they would doubtless be devoid of the great beauty which characterizes them at other periods.

The ideal time to visit the falls is just after the river has fallen sufficiently to allow one to cross the numerous rocky ravines through which, when the river is high, water is rushing, preventing a near approach to the true river bed and the falls. Soon after the freshet, which is from November to March, the grass springs up and the plants burst into bloom. Gaudy colors then predominate, from the deep yellow of the trumpet flower, the reds and blues of other plants, the beautiful pink flower of the "cebolha brava," which, when eaten cause the death of so many animals, to the black seed pod of the "blackwood" bush and the exquisite white bloom of the "ceres" which pops open at night, exhaling its delicate but penetrating odor. After a few weeks the dry season sets in. The grass and ephemeral flowering plants are then scorched by the sun, leaving only a few hardy bushes and the cacti.

Consisting as it does of a succession of rapids ending in a fall, opinion differs as to which point about Paulo Affonso one should first visit. To the writer the most beautiful and awe-inspiring portion is the rapids. One in viewing them realizes the truth of the words of a noted traveler, that "if Niagara be the monarch of cataracts, Paulo Affonso is assuredly the king of rapids." Either as rapids or falls, it stands unique. It has none of the artificial surroundings of Niagara, neither parks, houses, nor work of man. Instead, it remains unadorned, as it has been for centuries, with its almost barren banks standing like walls and more resembling cast iron than, as they are in reality, rock painted black by the iron and manganese held in solution by the water when the river is in freshet.

POINTERS ON BOILING FISH

Small Cod and Haddock Used to Boil Whole—Recipe for Butter Sauce.

Many kinds of fish may be boiled whole. Small cod and haddock are used. Cook in boiling water to cover, add salt and vinegar. Salt gives the flavor and vinegar keeps the flesh white. You can buy thick pieces of salmon and halibut and boil them. Tie them, after cleaning, in a piece of cheesecloth to prevent scum from getting on the fish. Remove the skin before serving. The fish is cooked when flesh leaves the bone. I always use an egg sauce with boiled fish made with one-half cup butter, three table-spoons flour, one and one-half cups hot water, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Melt one-half butter, add flour, with seasoning, and pour on gradually hot water. Boil five minutes, and add remaining butter in one-fourth-inch slices—or to the butter, flour, etc., add beaten yolks of two eggs and one teaspoon lemon juice, or instead of the slices of eggs chop them rather coarsely. These three ways are the only ones I ever use on boiled fish. I do not think I would care for a white sauce on fish. Follow the rule carefully and you will have a delightful sauce.—Exchange.

The Home

One tablespoonful of extract will flavor one quart of mixture to be frozen.

To keep a washbowl from rusting after using it on washday, wipe dry, then take a piece of cloth and saturate with kerosene, wipe the bowl inside and out.

A plain cloth dipped in hot water and then in a saucer of bran will clean white paint and not injure it. The bran acts like a soap on the paint.

If a loaf of bread has become stale hold it under the water for one second; then place in a brisk oven for a quarter of an hour. It will taste like new bread.

When you are ironing any dark material do not put a linen cloth underneath, as the lint will come off on the stuff and you will have great difficulty in brushing it off again.

China ware that has been burned or darkened through use may be brightened in this way: Take a teaspoonful of soda, moisten with water and scour till the spots are removed.

Breakfast Food Pies.

Take any one of the flaked, ready-cooked breakfast foods and mix with about half the quantity of rich cream, to form a moist paste. With this line a well-oiled pie plate, molding it around the edges to resemble ordinary pie crust. Pour in a filling of custard, coconut, cream, lemon or apple, and bake as an ordinary pie.

While the filling is cooking the cereal will bake out dry and crisp, becoming firm enough to support the pie when it is taken from the pan. It forms a pastry as delicious as the lightest qualities of the latter. A meringue should be placed on top, instead of an upper crust.

To Avoid Onion Odor.

Before beginning to fry onions or boil a cabbage, etc., see that the top of the kitchen window is open and also draw back the grating above the stove. Even if this is only open a few inches the smell from whatever is being cooked will have a means of escape. Instead of filling the kitchen and penetrating to other parts of the house.

It is a good plan to have some cedar-wood dust at hand to use on such occasions. A little scattered over the hot stove gives off a pleasant odor, which will entirely prevent the smells from being noticeable.

Pickled Eggs.

Boil fresh eggs one-half hour, then put into cold water. In the meantime have beets boiled until tender, remove skins, cut in dice form and covered with spiced vinegar. Shell the eggs and drop into the pickle jars. This is an ornamental pickle and considered very good.

Radish Chowder.

Six good-sized radishes, two large green cucumbers, three onions. Pare and slice on a slaw-cutter. Salt and pepper and set away on ice two hours. Then add one small cup vinegar and a cup of sour cream.

Raspberry Foam.

Take three tablespoonfuls of raspberry jelly, the whites of six eggs, and three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Beat with the egg beater until quite stiff. Then fill into glasses and serve. Sufficient for ten persons.

Green Currant Pie.

Stew and mash a pint of rather green currants; sweeten abundantly; add a sprinkling of flour or a rolled cracker and bake with two crusts. Dust generously with powdered sugar.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

The Dentist's Joke.

At a recent dinner of the Authors' club in London to Mr. Owen Seaman, the editor of Punch, Mr. Walter Emanuel, another member of the staff of Punch, referred to the fact that the man with the largest sense of humor he had ever struck was an Englishman—a dentist. He went to him after suffering long with a toothache. He refused to have gas, and the dentist pulled out a tooth, leaving him writhing in pain, and took the tooth to the window, where he laughed quite heartily. He groaned, "What's the joke?" "Wrong tooth," said the dentist.

Yes, Indeed.

Hostess (at party)—Why, so silent, Miss De Muir? You've scarcely said a word since you came.

Youthful Guest—Really, Mrs. Leader, I am having a very enjoyable time, but my father has told me 100 times never to say anything unless I have something to say, and I suppose—

Hostess—But, my dear child, think what a stupid and tiresome thing society would be if everybody followed that advice!

He Knew the Kind.

Little Edward, aged four, was an only child. He was anxious for a baby sister, and was talking of it one day with a friend of the family. In the friend's family was a baby girl of one year. The lady said, "Edward, you may have my baby; she is pretty and sweet."

"Oh," said Edward, "I don't want an old baby. I want a brand new one with noffin on but tatum powder."—Red Hen.

The Real Thing.

"You say your husband was cut by his neighbors at the party?"

"Yassah, dat's so, sah."

"Did they cut him with malice prepense?"

"No, sah; wiv a razah, sah."

Undoubtedly Bad.
